RUSSIAN CITY OF PINSK CAPTURED

SWALLOWED TWO POISON TABLETS BY MISTAKE

Newman Erb, Wealthy Financier and Railroad Organizer, Calmly
Awaiting Efforts to Save His Life

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Newman Erb, wealthy financier and railroad organizer, who swallowed two poison tablets by mistake, is today confined to his summer home at Deal, N. J., calmly awaiting the outcome of the efforts being made by three specialists to save his life. He spent a comfortable night, is virtually free from pain and entirely conscious.

The physicians hope that the prompt rejection of the poison by the stomach and the first aid rendered by Mr. Erb's valet prevented all but a small amount of the poison from entering the financier's system. Whether this has been the case may not be determinable for four or five days, the physicians in attendance have told Mr. Erb and his family.

LINEMAN HURT

Walter Munson Fell
From Pole on Central Street—At Hospital

Walter Munson, a lineman employed by the Bay State Street railway, had a narrow escape from being fatally injured about 8.15 o'clock this morning when he fell from the top of an iron pole which holds the trolley wires, near the corner of Central and Market streets. He is now at St. John's hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the arm and a probable fracture of the right hip. He resides at 109 Liberty street.

Munson together with several other linemen, has been working in the downtown section of the city for several days repairing the street railway poles. While working at the top of the pole almost directly in front of the Mansur block, he lost his hold and fell to the brick sidewalk, a distance of about 25 feet. It was at first thought that he came in contact with a live wire but he showed no evidence of this at the hospital, where he was resting comfortably as could be expected.

JITNEY DRIVER ARRESTED
Charles A. Folger, who claims to operate a jitney bus between this city and Lawrence, was arrested on Market street early this afternoon by Inspector John A. Walsh and booked at the station on an alleged charge of operating a motor vehicle without a license. Folger's peculiar actions attracted the attention of the inspector and the arrest followed.

It adds: "The official Austrian and German figures given out prior to May 1 stated the total of 1,385,000 Russian prisoners, not including civilians of the dead and wounded. General Polivanoff, the Russian minister of war, informed the duma that the total of officers and men at the front since the beginning of the war was 5,050,000. Consequently the present total of Russian forces is 1,995,260."

CONFERENCE WITH STRIKE LEADERS AT CITY HALL THIS FORENOON

All the leading members of the strike committee headed by Organizers Frank H. McCarthy and Daniel E. Whelan met Commissioner Chas. Wood of the state board of conciliation and arbitration at city hall just a few minutes before noon. A short conference was held in which the members of the committee outlined the demands of the strikers while the state board member listed down notes of their statements. None of the company officials was present as they had not been summoned. Commissioner Wood will endeavor to get in touch with the Co. officials immediately and arrange a meeting of both parties at an early date so that the differences may be arbitrated. The strike committee consisted of the following officials of the new union: Peter J. Brady, president; Joseph Shea, secretary; Miss Ellen Chaplin, financial secretary-treasurer.

DEMANDS OF STRIKERS SENT TO CARTRIDGE CO.

Strikers at Mass Meeting Demand 8-Hour Day and Increase in Wages—
State Board of Arbitration Confers With Labor Leaders at City Hall

The U. S. Cartridge company's works closed down completely this noon when Captain Doe found that the magistrates remaining could not be kept at work with the other departments idle.

Seizable level headed labor leaders have overcome the chaos of disorganization in the strikers; they have enrolled most of the strikers in a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and have submitted their formal demands to Captain Doe, manager of the company's works.

These demands were adopted amid great enthusiasm at a mass meeting held at Associate hall this forenoon.

Organizer Frank H. McCarthy of the A. F. of L., has full charge of the strike for the present and can be relied upon to do what is reasonable.

A feature of the forenoon's work was a brief conference of the strike leaders with Commissioner Wood of the state board of arbitration. Mr. Wood wanted to confer with the leaders before seeing the Cartridge company officials. The coming of the board may bring about an early settlement, as one of the articles of the strikers' demands provides for arbitration in case of disagreement between the parties.

Strikers' Demands
After due deliberation the leaders

in charge of the strike sent the following communication, setting forth the strikers' demands to Capt. T. B. Doe, manager of the U. S. Cartridge Co.'s plants:

Boston, Sept. 15, 1915.

Mr. Thomas E. Doe, General Manager, United States Cartridge Co., Lawrence street, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: By direction of the Lowell Cartridge Workers' union, an organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, being composed entirely of people employed by your company, I submit to you the following schedule of hours, wages and labor conditions with the hope the same will meet with approval and acceptance by your company.

Section 2. The hours of labor shall not exceed eight per day and shall be so arranged as not to include the performance of work from 6 p. m. on Saturdays to 7 a. m. on the following Mondays and on legal holidays, for all of which double time shall be paid.

Section 3. All overtime shall be paid for at the rate of time and one-half excepting such time as may be worked between 6 p. m. Saturdays and 7 a. m. on the following Mondays and on legal holidays, for all of which double time shall be paid.

Section 8. Every employee taking part in the existing strike who was on the payroll of the company of September 10th, 1915, or later, shall return to the work vacated by them without discrimination of any kind.

Section 9. In the event that any differences should arise between the company and the union in relation to this agreement or any other matter that cannot be settled satisfactorily by representatives of the company and the union in conference said matters of disagreement shall be referred for final adjustment to the Massachusetts state board of conciliation and arbitration and the company and the union agree to accept decision of such board as binding.

Section 10. This agreement shall remain in effect until September 1, 1916. I am further directed to say that the Cartridge Workers' union has appointed a committee to take charge of its affairs and said committee will be pleased to confer with you on the above schedule at any time and place that would meet with your convenience.

Hoping that the propositions as stated will meet with your approval and thereby restore harmony between your company and organized labor, which we believe will be mutually beneficial and trusting for an early reply, I am, Respectfully yours,

HOTTEST DAY OF YEAR PROF. THAYER DROWNED

SCHOOLS CLOSED ON ACCOUNT OF THE HEAT—MERCURY IN THE 90S

With an official maximum temperature of 94, the fourth day of the belated hot wave broke all records in this city, it being the hottest day of the year so far as temperature is concerned. Again today the thermometers in nearly all the school rooms registered nearly 90 and once more Supt. Molloy caused the "no school" bell to be sounded at 12.45 o'clock, dismissing all pupils. Schools were also closed in the suburban towns, the principals being notified by the various superintendents at noon.

During the night the mercury remained above 80. It climbed steadily all forenoon and in Merimack square thermometers registered 90. At the Locks & Canals an official temperature was given and the police station thermometer showed a temperature of 92.

On account of today being a half-holiday in the stores, there was a great exodus of people after the noon hour, many going into the country in an attempt to get relief. Small stores not in the custom of closing at noon Thursday shut down today. Other stores usually open every night in the week closed at 6.30 o'clock last night, so intense was the heat.

PREDICT OFFICERS MEET

Commissioner Duncan and the City Clerk Will Instruct Them at Meeting to be Held This Evening

The precinct officers will meet at city hall this evening for the purpose of being sworn in and to receive instructions from Commissioner Duncan and City Clerk Flynn relative to the handling of the ballot, which is a rather unwieldy and complicated one. The city clerk has about arrived at the conclusion that the ballot will not permit of the currier system and that the ballots will have to be counted singly rather than in blocks.

The matter of the best way of folding and handling the ballot will be discussed at this evening's meeting and it is hoped that all of the precinct officers will endeavor to attend.

MIDDLESEX NORTH FAIR

Fine Exhibits Shown in Every Department—Today's Events—Prizes Awarded

Despite the heat the attendance at the fair conducted at the Grange hall, Dracut Centre under the auspices of the Middlesex North Agricultural society was largely attended today and much to the pleasure of the organizers the gathering was much larger than yesterday.

The various exhibits throughout the building were viewed with much interest, while the school exhibit of vegetables and plants in the field adjoining the building was again the chief attraction. The fair this year was conducted on a much larger scale than those of previous years and the result was very satisfactory to all interested. Today's program was varied and interesting. The first number was, as usual a good farmer's dinner, which was attended by many and which was served at 12 o'clock. At 2 o'clock an exhibit of decorated automobiles took place and four valuable prizes were awarded the owners of the best decorated cars.

At 2:15 o'clock all repaired to the adjoining field, where sporting events consisting of the following numbers were conducted: Running broad jump, shot put, 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, high jump, light boys' race, 880-yard dash, girls' race, ladies' race, etc. This proved one of the features of the afternoon.

Later an automobile slow race was in order, conducted by lady drivers. The most interesting number of the afternoon was without doubt the firemen's contest for volunteer companies. This was limited to 8 men to a company and the contest consisted of the following numbers:

Laying and coupling 200 feet of hose, raising at least 60 feet of ladders, stream on and break paper target on roof of building, picking up and returning hose, ladders, tools, etc., to starting point.

Hose, ladders, playpipe, wrenches, etc., to be placed midway between building and hydrant.

Time to be called up in coils, female coupling outside.

Men to be in line at hydrant.

Time to be taken from sound of gong until target is broken.

Picking up. Time to be taken when target is broken until men are in line same as starting.

Prizes:

First: Fastest time breaking target, $15 and silver loving cup, presented by Senator George E. Marchand.

Second: Fastest time breaking target, $10.

Picking up: Winning company, $5.

The judges for the decorated automobiles were Rev. Ernest C. Bartlett, of the Dracut Congregational church; Rev. Samuel Dupertuis of the Hillsdale Congregational church and Rev. W. Earl Pettenger of the Centralville M. E. church.

The firemen's contest was in charge of Chief Frank Gunther of the Dracut fire department, while the sporting events were conducted by the following: Guy Randall, William Dennett and Mr. Brennan of the Lowell high school; Calvin Rogers of the Parker avenue school; Thomas Farrell and William Conway.

YESTERDAY'S AWARDS

A feature of yesterday afternoon's program was an exhibition of scout work by the Boy Scouts from Chelmsford and Dracut. Sports for boys were also conducted. The awards at the horse show were made as follows:

BOARD OF TRADE

Active Campaign for the Winter Planned—Many New Schemes

The first meeting of the season of the board of trade directors took place last evening in Page's restaurant with 19 directors present and a full campaign full of activity was launched. The plans include a fashion week beginning Sept. 24 for the benefit of the merchants; an exposition of goods made in Lowell during a week in November; investigating and deciding a course of action upon the six cent issue to speak on the street railway urging a water department census of Lowell to check up the tally of the state enumerators, which is believed to be below the actual population of the city, and housing projects now under way.

The question of whether or not the board of trade should oppose the six-cent fare as petitioned for by the Bay State Street Railway was discussed and referred to the transportation committee with a request that the committee investigate fully and report to the next meeting of the directors, which will be held Oct. 5. Among those to speak on the street railway matter were Secretary Murphy, Judge Frederic A. Bishop, Daniel E. Carroll, and Stanley E. Qua. An outline of what the changes would mean locally was published in Monday's Sun.

Letter to Municipal Council

The following communication was sent to the municipal council was authorized by the directors:

The directors authorized the following communication to be sent to the municipal council:

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 13, 1915.

Municipal Council of the City of Lowell.

Gentlemen:—The Lowell board of trade respectfully requests your honorable body to authorize and instruct the commissioner of the water department to have a census of the residents of the city of Lowell taken at the time of the next general meter readings, for the purpose of securing a total of the population of Lowell from a source independent of the state's census.

This can be done, it is believed, with little trouble and expense and, if done carefully and completely, will be of considerable value to the city.

The state census of this year, according to the preliminary announcement of its figures, gives Lowell an increase in population since 1910 of 1010. The board of trade and all other business requires reference to the population of the city.

It is estimated that two or three important industrial concerns in Lowell have curtailed, but to no such degree as to offset the growth of population as suggested above, especially in view of the fact that the United States Cartage Co. has undoubtedly given employment to many who might otherwise have left the city before curtailment by the Saco-Lowell shops and the Bigelow-Hartford Corporation. Furthermore, the schools show at the opening sessions this year more than the normal increase in number of pupils, and the fact that the city has had Lowell remained almost stationary as to growth in population. Real estate dealers are on record as stating that there are far fewer tenements vacant in Lowell than was the case five years ago and at the same time there has been a distinct and noticeable increase in the construction of new residential property.

For these reasons the board of trade would like to check up the enumeration of the 1915 census and believes there is no easier or quicker way to do it than by means of a water census.

Summer Activities

Secretary Murphy gave a brief statement of the matters taken up by himself and by the executive committee during the summer 2 months. He outlined these as follows:

The board was directly responsible for preventing the trade travel coupons and the red stamps from being introduced to use in Lowell.

Secured for the Lowell high school the Swan collection of shells, insects, pressed flowers and other small collections. Secured the location in Lowell of the Fuller-Osborn Co., manufacturers of skirts.

Secured the 3:45 p. m. train from Boston and the 1:05 p. m. Saturday train from Boston to the winter schedule.

Secured the relocation of Agent Parkin of the Boston & Maine railroad at his former office in the railroad station as a convenience to shippers.

Secured authority from President Harts that freight delivery would be made on Warren street, providing the delivery was intended for tenants for the Middlesex mills. This opens up a field in that district for the manufacturing development of the section.

Posted various signs showing direct routes through the city and also erected danger signs at intersecting routes.

Published in the newspapers a memorandum calling upon people of Lowell who spend their summer vacations elsewhere to purchase all their supplies in Lowell. Interested the Grocers' association in this matter.

Conducted an employment bureau for young people during vacation and placed in position 29 boys and four girls.

Assisted in the location in Lowell of the George H. Snow Co. of shoe manufacturers and called the attention of shoe manufacturers to the advantages of Lowell.

Urged a change in location of the steps in the proposed Boston & Maine plans for a new bridge at Chelmsford street.

By means of stories published in the papers succeeded in deliveling clothing salesmen representing the Boston dealers from the city.

Extended invitations to the visiting governors of the United States at their conference in Boston to visit Lowell.

Arranged an official visit to the Sixth regiment camp.

Interviewed Colonel Craighead on various occasions concerning improvement of the Merrimack river.

Investigated both the wholesale and retail dealers regarding prices of gas oil in the city for the purpose of comparison with the prices in Lowell.

Arranged a meeting of the larger employers of labor to attend a meeting to be addressed by Miss Antoinette Greely on welfare work.

Spent considerable time showing factory locations to prospective manufacturers.

TWO KILLED ON CROSSING

DR. ROGERS AND HIS WIFE HURLED OVER EMBANKMENT WHEN TRAIN HIT AUTO

FARMINGTON, Me., Sept. 16.—Dr. Justin N. Rogers, a dentist, Falmouth, Me., and his wife, were killed today when their automobile was struck on a crossing near here by a Maine Central passenger train. The car was thrown over an embankment, falling 40 feet.

The accident happened on the Lowell crossing, about three miles below Farmington village. The approach is said to be a blind one with a steep grade, and it was supposed Dr. Rogers stalled his engine in attempting to prevent a collision. He was dead when picked up and Mrs. Rogers died within a few minutes.

Married a Year Ago

Dr. Rogers was about 35 years of age and a native of Monson. He had been located at Falmouth 10 years but sold out his business two weeks ago and was intending to settle in Portland. They were making the trip from Falmouth in their automobile and on the way had stopped here over night for a visit with his aunt, Mrs. John R. Allen, matron of the state normal school.

Mrs. Rogers, who was about 21 years of age, was Maude McCloud, of Falmouth. They were married a year ago.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat

"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acidity; therefore stomach sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Those sufferers who have been subjected to excess from their diet all starch, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, should try a meal of any food or foods in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisulphated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of heaviness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisulphated magnesia is doubtless the best, fast, corrective and natural known. It is direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining. It does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. It not only inflames and irritates stomach with indigestion, but it also causes the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisulphated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your regular meal, take some of the bisulphated magnesia as directed above, and note remarkable results.

In the accompanying illustration is shown an actual scene in a trench in Poland. German soldiers are seen giving a concert. There was a lull in the battle, and the strains of popular German music hall airs, lively two steps and dreamy waltzes, floated on the air. The concert was heard by the Russian forces, who were camped not far away, and at its conclusion there was hearty cheering, which brought forth an encore.

PIER RIOTERS ON TRIAL

MEN FACE JURY FOR TROUBLE IN BOSTON ON AUGUST 15—JUDGE WARNS JURORS

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Two police sergeants, numerous patrolmen, custom officers and others were witnesses at the trial yesterday of Caesar Angioletto and Antonio Spongato, two of the half dozen or more men indicted as a consequence of the disturbances at the Commonwealth pier, when 1200 Italian reservists sailed for Italy on Sunday, August 15.

Judge Dubuque and a newly impaneled jury heard the case in the superior criminal court. Before the proceedings began Judge Dubuque warned the jury not to permit their prejudices regarding the war in Europe to interfere in their deliberations.

Angioletto is accused of assault upon Officer Murdo McDonald and charged with inciting a riot.

JAMES J. HILL SAYS BIG LOAN MUST APPEAL TO ALL BANKERS

JAMES J. HILL
© PACH BROS.

Discussing the proposed loan of $1,000,000,000 to the allies, James J. Hill, railroad builder and one of the financial geniuses of the country, said: "Any loan that is arranged must be a national loan. It must appeal to bankers all over the country. If a loan should be limited to war munitions and supplies the country banks in the west would take little or no interest in it, and it would undoubtedly prove to be very unpopular in the western section of the country. If, on the other hand, the loan, in addition to covering credits for war munitions and supplies, shall cover the country's exportable foodstuffs and provisions, there is every indication that the western banks, even in the smallest towns, will give their heartiest support."

Will be Prorogued Today Until the Middle of November

LONDON, Sept. 16, 12.17 p. m.—Reuter's Petrograd correspondent telegraphs that the Russian duma will be prorogued today until the middle of November.

An imperial decree to this effect has been issued, the correspondent says, and was communicated last night by Premier Goremykin to the cabinet and to Michael Rodzianko, president of the duma. The premier also conferred with the military and civil authorities of Petrograd and Moscow with regard to forestalling popular demonstrations.

Differences of opinion between the cabinet and the duma have been clearly defined since the formation early this month of a majority in the duma of liberal and progressive elements. The new majority put forward a program of important reforms, and it was reported that the cabinet might resign. Premier Goremykin went to the field headquarters of Emperor Nicholas to discuss the situation and on his return to Petrograd it was said the government regarded the program of the liberals as untimely.

Arthur Cushing, attorney for Mrs. Mohr and William H. Lewis of Cambridge, Mass., former assistant United States attorney general who represented the negroes, sought a guarantee that the defendants' rights would not be presented to the grand jury before the continued hearing could be held. Mr. Cushing, however, refused to define the government's position.

Today's proceedings lasted less than 10 minutes. When Judge F. H. Hamill announced the continuance until Sept. 30, the defendants and their attorneys left court immediately. Mrs. Mohr was in a liberty on bail for $10,000, returned to Providence by automobile with her attorney. The negroes were taken to the Providence county jail at Cranston in an automobile in custody of Sheriff Philip D. Cady.

LONDON DEVELOPING ANTI-AIR-CRAFT GUNS—SUBJECT UNDER DISCUSSION

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The adequacy of the air service was the subject of some criticism in the house of commons yesterday. Arthur J. Balfour, first lord of the admiralty, admitted that the provisions which had been considered sufficient at the beginning of the war had to be materially developed. He said, however, that the service was now being supplemented far more rapidly than was the danger it was organized to meet.

There has been a great strain, Mr. Balfour continued, on the supply of anti-aircraft guns. The development of an aerial offensive had not been foreseen before the war, but the naval air service was now on great dimensions. "I cannot say," Mr. Balfour said in conclusion, "that there will be a discontinuance of the attacks on London, but no one will suggest that such methods of terrorism are going to be the slightest degree to shake the resolution of the British people."

SPECIAL MEETING

Bricklayers' Union, No. 31, Friday, Sept. 17, 1915. Matters of importance.

J. J. WARREN, Pres.

POSTPONEMENT FOR TWO WEEKS ORDERED IN DISTRICT COURT TODAY

WARREN, R. I., Sept. 16.—A continuance of two weeks was ordered in the district court here today when the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany Blair Mohr, accused of inflicting the murder of her husband, Dr. George Franklin Mohr, of Providence and Newport, and George W. Healle, C. Victor Brown and Henry Spellman, the negroes charged with the actual commission of the crime, was called for a hearing today. The continuance was granted on the representation of Asst. Atty. Gen. A. A. Capostote that the most important material witness for the government, Miss Emily G. Burger, Dr. Mohr's secretary, was unable to be present.

Miss Burger, who was wounded on the night of Aug. 31 at the time Dr. Mohr was killed, is recovering from her injuries at a hospital in Providence.

Arthur Cushing, attorney for Mrs. Mohr and William H. Lewis of Cambridge, Mass., former assistant United States attorney general who represented the negroes, sought a guarantee that the defendants' rights would not be presented to the grand jury before the continued hearing could be held. Mr. Cushing, however, refused to define the government's position.

Today's proceedings lasted less than 10 minutes. When Judge F. H. Hamill announced the continuance until Sept. 30, the defendants and their attorneys left court immediately. Mrs. Mohr was in a liberty on bail for $10,000, returned to Providence by automobile with her attorney. The negroes were taken to the Providence county jail at Cranston in an automobile in custody of Sheriff Philip D. Cady.

EX-FIREMAN SAVES HOTEL

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The good fortune of having as a guest a retired Boston fireman is considered by the management of the Quincy house to have saved them a heavy fire loss yesterday, when Solomon E. MINIMUM WAGE

Pay of Female Employees
in the Retail Stores
Scheduled

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—A decree enumerating minimum wages for female employees of ordinary ability in retail stores, which practically adopts the recommendations of the retail store wage board made Aug. 5, was issued yesterday by the minimum wage commission. The new wage scale will go into effect Jan. 1, 1916. The decree is as follows:

"No. 1. No experienced female employee of ordinary ability shall be employed in retail stores in Massachusetts at a rate of wages less than $5.50 a week.

"2. No female employee of ordinary ability shall be deemed inexperienced who has been employed in a retail store or stores for one year or more, after reaching the age of 18 years.

"3. A female employee shall be deemed to have been employed in the industry for a year if her absence from her place or places of employment during 12 months, whether consecutive or non-consecutive, have not been of unreasonable duration.

"4. The wages of learners and apprentices may be less than the minimum prescribed for experienced employees, provided that no female employee of ordinary ability who has reached the age of 18 years shall be employed at a rate of wages less than $7 a week; that no female employee of ordinary ability who has reached the age of 17 years shall be employed at a rate of wages less than $6 a week; that no other female employee of ordinary ability shall be paid at a rate of wages less than $5 a week.

"5. A female employee of less than ordinary ability may be paid less than the prescribed minimum wage provided that the conditions of section 2, chapter 79B, acts of 1912, are complied with.

"6. These recommendations shall take effect Jan. 1, 1916, on which date all female employees of ordinary ability who have been employed in the industry for one year or more after reaching the age of 18 shall be deemed to have served an apprenticeship of one year and all others shall be deemed to have begun their apprenticeship and to be entitled to the rates as specified above.

"In order to facilitate the enforcement of this order the commission recommends that a female employee on leaving her employment in any establishment receive a card showing the time she has worked in that establishment.

The decree is signed by all the commissioners, Robert E. Hahoe, chairman; Mabel Gillespie and Arthur N. Holcombe.

Chapter 706, acts of 1912, which created the minimum wage commission provides that there is no appeal from the decree just issued, except that any employer, upon filing a declaration under oath in the supreme judicial court or superior court that compliance with such decree would endanger the prosperity of his business, shall be entitled to a stay of execution and a review of the question involved in the declaration. If the court finds that the employer's business in question is endangered, the court may revoke the decree.

The commission is also empowered to note and to publish the names of all employers disobeying the decree, in at least four newspapers in each county in the state, with a statement of the minimum wages paid by such employers.

SHERMAN ACT MAY APPLY

Ex-Att'y Gen. Bonaparte, During Visit in Boston, Discusses Alleged Plot Against Munition Factories

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—"If it can be proved that an attempt was made to keep a group of workmen from their employment in a factory, that might come under the scope of the Sherman Anti-trust law, as a conspiracy in restraint of trade; but it would make no difference whether the place of employment was a factory for the manufacture of war materials or a factory making articles that have nothing to do with the war."

This was the opinion expressed yesterday by Ex-Att'y Gen. Charles J. Bonaparte, who stopped at the Hotel Vendome on his way back from St. Andrews, N. B. He intimated that it is difficult to secure adequate evidence in the matter of interference with workmen at war munition plants.

He was sure that no ambassador from a foreign country has a right even to instruct aliens of his own race here, except through the United States government. "His fellow countrymen," said Mr. Bonaparte, "have, of course, the right to ask individually his advice on any subject, but for an ambassador to undertake to instruct aliens who are permanent residents of this country, even though they are not citizens, is meddling."

ANTONE KALE DROWNED

FIRE UNEXPLAINED

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The police of Brookline are inclined to believe the story of Watchman Michael McLaughlin of the Country Club building on Circle street, that town, whose cries early yesterday aroused other employees in time to extinguish a fire, believed to have been set, which was creeping up to the outside of the structure.

FOSS IS READY TO QUIT

OFFERS TO WITHDRAW IF EITHER
RIVAL ACCEPTS THE PROHIBITION PLATFORM

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Ex-Gov. Foss, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, in an open letter to his opponents, ex-Congressman McCall and Lieut. Gov. Cushing, yesterday offered to withdraw from the contest provided they will declare for national prohibition.

In this letter Mr. Foss explains that he sets the defeat of the liquor interests above everything else, including his own personal success. He declares that in spite of the fact that he has good reason to believe he will be nominated, he proposes to bring about an agreement with his opponents to the end that the liquor interests may surely be defeated.

"We have no right," the letter declares, "to conduct our respective personal campaigns so that the common objects on which alone our title to public consideration rests shall be defeated. Unless the republican party adopts the issue of national prohibition its chance to return to power will be lost."

INDIANA TO CELEBRATE NATAL DAY OF JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

FRONT OF HIS HOME

Oct. 7 of this year will be a red letter day in the city of Indianapolis and the state of Indiana. It is the 66th anniversary of the birth of James Whitcomb Riley, the poet and there will be great doings. Here's what the New York Times says editorially about the coming momentous day: What will they say now—those critics of the American people who have, some of them, lamented and others rather exulted over our inappreciation of the literary man as a national asset and object of respect? The importance ascribed to Annunzio and his work by the Italians of all ranks has been repeatedly instanced of late as indicative of their possession of an aesthetic intelligence and sensitiveness utterly or almost lacking among comparative barbarians like ourselves, and the notion that we too could take a more poet otherwise than as an amiable triller would doubtless have been treated with disdainful laughter if ever it had entered the minds of these critics—which, of course, it didn't. Yet Samuel M. Ralston, who, as he has been raised to the high office of governor by a not inconsiderable group of American citizens, represents, it can fairly be assumed the ideas and judgment of that group has just set his hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the state of Indiana at the capital, in the city of Indianapolis, to a long and solemn document which proclaims that Oct. 7, this year, being the 66th anniversary of James Whitcomb Riley's birth, shall be Riley day. And, urgeth, That all the people of the state arrange in their respective communities, in their own way, appropriate public exercises in their schools and at their other public meeting places, and that they display the American flag in their homes and places of business on that day in honor of James Whitcomb Riley, Indiana's most beloved citizen. There's appreciation for you, and of a poet, too! When has or will Italy or any other country in Europe do a thing like that? To be sure, Indiana is not the United States, but it is quite as distinctively American as any single one of our states could be, and if, or rather as of all its citizens Indiana loves best a make of verses, one doesn't have to be a resident of that particular literary belt to feel authorized to scorn the scorners mentioned above. Precisely what are "appropriate public exercises" for the state-wide celebration of a living poet's birthday? Gov. Ralston, in caution or by inadvertence, refrains from telling. He trusts his people to find right things to do, if they do not know them already, and there need be no fear that his confidence will be betrayed.

COLLISION AT WENHAM

WENHAM, Sept. 16.—A motorcycle ridden by Fred Dow of Smithtown, N. H., and towed by another motorcycle ridden by Albert Brooks of Newburyport, was in collision with an automobile operated by Miss Nancy Flagg of Amesbury about 7.30 last night.

In the automobile with Miss Flagg was Miss Martha Brooks of Gloucester and Miss Gwendolen Flagg of Portland, Me. When the machines came together the women were tossed about the car and were considerably frightened.

Dow was thrown from the motorcycle in front of the automobile, but Miss Flagg brought her machine to a standstill before it passed over him. She jumped from her car and lent all assistance possible to Dow, who was later taken in an automobile to the home of Dr. C. H. Davis at Hamilton, where his injuries, consisting of bruises about the face and hands, were treated.

AS HOT AS YESTERDAY

Hot Wave Continues Today—Cooler Tomorrow—One Killed and Two Tried Suicide

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The hot wave continued to hold eastern New England in its grip today. The temperature in this city at noon was 91, the same as yesterday but as the amount of moisture in the atmosphere was slightly higher, the heat seemed more severe. School sessions were suspended throughout the day in many cities and towns and in others the pupils were dismissed at noon, in some cases for the rest of the week.

More reasonable conditions were predicted for tomorrow.

96 AT NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 16.—Temperatures of 90 to 96 in school rooms today led to the closing of the high school and many other school buildings.

107 AT HAVERHILL

HAVERHILL, Sept. 16.—Schools were closed again today on account of the heat. Numerous minor prostrations were reported. Down town thermometers registered 107 degrees.

BROCKTON SCHOOLS CLOSED

BROCKTON, Sept. 16.—Because of the high temperature all the public schools in the city were closed at noon today by order of the superintendent of schools.

AT WOONSOCKET, R. I.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Sept. 16.—By order of Supt. W. A. Mowry all public and some of the parochial schools in Woonsocket were closed today for all day on account of heat.

EMPLOYEES GET AFTERNOON OFF

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 16.—With the thermometer at 91 and the humidity intense 2000 employees of the J. & P. Coats, thread manufacturers and 800 of Howard & Bullock, machinists, were given an afternoon off. Many of the school rooms of this city and of Central Falls were also closed.

ONE KILLED, 16 PROSTRATED

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—One more day of almost unexampled September heat wrought in Boston yesterday distress and discomfort such as few mid-summer days bring. In Boston itself one death and 16 prostrations were caused by the heat, and some persons were taken to the hospital. In other parts of the city two other prostrations were reported, and there were many reported from elsewhere.

Deaths From Heat

Mrs. Jennie Carr, aged 58, 1 Dana court, Roxbury. Collapsed at home while washing supper dishes last evening. Soon became unconscious and later was pronounced dead by a doctor who had been called.

Edgar V. Hazard of Whitman, 63, dropped dead at the door of his foundry, where he had gone to get a breath of air.

Attempted Suicides From Heat

Mrs. Mary Lucas, 38 years old, was found yesterday afternoon at her home, 1117 Harrison avenue, seriously ill. She was taken to the City hospital, where it was found she had swallowed a quantity of disinfecting fluid.

William Kerr, 30 years old, a lodger at 23 Union Park street, was found lying on his bed with his throat and both wrists cut. He was taken to the City hospital, where his condition is regarded as dangerous.

Tuesday's heat had closed some schools, but yesterday the closing was general in Boston itself and the surrounding territory, an event so unusual as to indicate better than anything else the phenomenal nature of the weather.

The weather bureau records give the maximum temperature yesterday as 94 at 2 and 3 p. m., and show that the mercury remained above 90 from shortly before noon until 5 p. m. As last Tuesday had taken the summer's heat record away from the previous Friday, so yesterday's 94 went two points above Tuesday, and for the third time in this September hot spell established a maximum temperature for 1915.

Cooler Weather Coming

Happily this third promise to be the last. Although last night the mercury dropped very slowly, making it one of the worst nights in the summer for sleeping, there is promise of a change for the better today. Somewhat lower temperatures and a west wind of a southwest wind are the forecasted accompaniments of today's fair skies and a survey of the weather map last night showed that, as one went west, one found steadily cooler weather.

In several respects yesterday was a remarkable day. In the first place, the maximum of 94 broke all records for the day, for Sept. 15 had only 87, 1872 had 90, 1873 had 91, 1874 had 92, 1875 had 93, 1876 had 94, 1877 had 95, 1878 had 96, 1879 had 97, 1880 had 98, 1881 had 99, 1882 had 100, 1883 had 101, 1884 had 102, 1885 had 103, 1886 had 104, 1887 had 105, 1888 had 106, 1889 had 107, 1890 had 108, 1891 had 109, 1892 had 110, 1893 had 111, 1894 had 112, 1895 had 113, 1896 had 114, 1897 had 115, 1898 had 116, 1899 had 117, 1900 had 118, 1901 had 119, 1902 had 120, 1903 had 121, 1904 had 122, 1905 had 123, 1906 had 124, 1907 had 125, 1908 had 126, 1909 had 127, 1910 had 128, 1911 had 129, 1912 had 130, 1913 had 131, 1914 had 132, 1915 had 133.

A year ago had a normal range of 74 to 82 and in 1913 it was an unusually cold day, ranging from 59 to 71.

But 94 for the middle of September.

though rare, is not without precedent. Last year, for example, that figure was reached Sept. 23, and the same date in 1895 saw 96. On the other hand, the minimum of 73 was really very remarkable, for in the fall even hot days usually have cool nights and only once or twice in the early days of the month can such a high minimum be found. It follows a minimum of 72 last Saturday.

High Minimums, a Feature

Indeed, the striking feature of the hot wave that began on Wednesday of last week and is not yet quite over has been the high minimums. Only once in that period, late Monday night, did the mercury drop a degree below 60; even Sunday's moderate maximum of 71 was accompanied with a maximum of 63 that made the average high.

In consequence, the mean temperature of every day of this period—in fact every day since Sept. 3—has been above normal, from two degrees Monday to 21 degrees yesterday, a total of 90 degrees excess for the eight days, making the excess for the month to date 101 degrees.

Schools Closed

Otherwise the high temperatures are not so remarkable, even for September, as the man with memories of fall coolness might believe. Last year, for instance, the three days Sept. 21-23 gave successive maximums of 90, 90 and 94, and those same days in 1893 had 94, 94 and 96 for top figures. A five-day hot spell in 1903, from Sept. 13 to Sept. 17—recorded 86, 91, 88, 89 and 81.

Yesterday was hot enough, though, in all conscience. For the first time, it is believed, in the history of the Boston schools, they were all closed because of the heat, and the city's army of 12,000 children, to say nothing of the teachers, was turned loose to find solace from the heat as best they could.

This action was taken with the approval of Supt. Franklin B. Dyer and Chairman Michael H. Corcoran. From the Mason street headquarters word was telephoned to all the grammar school principals, so that from 11 to 12 all the schools were closed. The high schools lasted somewhat longer, but were closed between 12 and 1. "Business also felt the effect of the exhausting heat and humidity. A Wakefield stove works had to shut down for a time, letting 100 molders go at noon, and there were other like cases. In Boston, the letter carriers were relieved of the 11 a. m. delivery, and the postal clerks were also allowed to skip one trip. Even the federal grand jury found the heat in the federal building too intense and quit at 1 p. m., and the superior court was adjourned shortly before noon.

Warm Elsewhere

It can be a surprise to nobody that Boston was the highest temperature recorded by the weather bureau, although all the northeast section was hot. In New England, Hartford, Conn., and Northfield, Vt., reported 90 for a maximum, Portland 80 and Eastport only 60.

Elsewhere there was 92 from Albany, N. Y.; Washington, D. C. 87; Scranton, Pa., and Evansville, Pittsburgh and New Orleans and 88 from New York and St. Louis. On the other hand Buffalo's maximum was only 73 and Chicago's 68, with 68 the highest for Denver and 66 for Prince Albert in Northwest Canada.

Even such usually torrid points as Phoenix, Ariz., and Abilene, Tex., recorded only 80 and 75 as their high marks, and Jacksonville, Fla., though far to the south, had 85. An unusual area of high pressure is shown on the weather map, including the whole eastern half of the country and centering about Atlantic City.

WAIVES COURT DIGNITY

Judge Fish Allows Attorneys and Jurymen to Appear in Shirt Sleeves on Account of the Heat

NEWFANE, Vt., Sept. 16.—An incident in the county court here yesterday is without parallel in that court so far as the attorneys at present practicing there are aware. When the time came for the noon recess, Judge Frank L. Fish, who is a man of considerable dignity, stated from the bench:

"Well, gentlemen, I think there will be no dissenting opinion from any of you when I say that this has been an unusually hot forenoon, and that it is likely to be hotter this afternoon. If any of the gentlemen of the jury or any others wish to appear after dinner without your coats, the court will make no objection."

As a result every man in the courtroom yesterday afternoon was in his shirt sleeves except Judge Fish, who wore his thinnest coat.

Hot Session in Police Court Today—Defendant Fined

A long drawn out assault and battery case in which a woman claimed she was badly beaten while attempting to take her husband home from a house where he was being harbored by another family, occupied the attention of Judge Enright and a number of spectators at this forenoon's session of police court. Felixa Madelewicz, a bride of only a few months, was the defendant and Mrs. Karla Zina Purcell was the victim of the alleged assault. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant and John J. McClure for the newlywed.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 7, when her husband did not return home from supper Mrs. Purcell, suspecting that he was at a neighbor's house, went in search of him and politely knocked at the door, requesting that her husband be sent out. Instead of receiving her husband, asserted the complainant, she was the recipient of blows from a broom stick, followed by more blows in which an iron pipe was used. She showed the court a badly bruised left arm, which necessitated medical treatment, Dr. Livingston being the physician.

Lawyer McClure for the defense attempted to show that the woman went to the house looking for trouble but the witness claimed that though her husband was not as faithful as he might be he could by no means be called "trouble."

The defendant denied the striking and said Mrs. Purcell went to her home all worked up over the absence of her husband. Felixa alleged that in no way induced the man to go to her home and he, the complainant's husband, even went so far as to finance the party, paying for all the refreshments.

Judge Enright decided that the defendant took the law in her own hands by committing the assault and imposed a fine of $15. She paid.

When the name of Daniel Cryan, accused of fraudulent concealment of property, was called there was no response and Cryan was defaulted.

An Array of Drunks

Another good array of drunken offenders occupied the attention of the court today, 10 being present after the daily elimination of first offenders. One of the defendants was a woman, totally blind, who was arrested yesterday afternoon in company with a man. She pleaded with the court for a chance to get out, claiming that she had relatives with whom she could live. Her case was continued until Saturday for investigation. Two of the others were sent to the state farm; three to jail and the rest given opportunities to pay fines.

JUMPED ON AN AUTO

When SPEED INCREASED CHILD WAS THROWN OFF AND INJURED

Arthur Savard, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Savard of Moody st., received a bad gash in the forehead late yesterday afternoon while playing in front of his home.

Shortly before 5 o'clock the boy hung on to the back of an automobile driven by Joseph Carrier. The chauffeur increased the speed with the result that the boy was thrown forcibly to the ground, striking his head on the hard pavement.

The little fellow was carried into the Red Cross pharmacy, where he was given first aid treatment by W. P. Calise, Jr. The boy was found to be suffering from a deep gash in his forehead, but his condition is not serious.

The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Egan. Tracy, while the best man was James Cull. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Martin O'Donnell, 37 Concord street. Mr. and Mrs. Welch, who were the recipients of numerous costly gifts left on an extended honeymoon trip during which time they will visit relatives and friends in Boston and New York. They will return to this city on Oct. 1.

NO WORD OF DUMBA

VIENNA, Sept. 14, by courier to Berlin, via London. Sept. 15, 10:55 p. m.—Even now no admission can be obtained in any government quarters that anything more is known of the fate of Dr. Constantin Theodore Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Washington, than is printed in the Swiss, French and German newspapers reaching here.

It appears to be a fact that he reports of any nature has yet been received from the ambassador himself nor from Frederick Penfield, the American ambassador, received Secretary of State Lansing's note requesting the withdrawal of Dr. Dumba.

CHELSEA MAN ENDS LIFE

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Just released from the City hospital where physicians had successfully frustrated his efforts to poison himself and strangled him back from the very jaws of death, William Brathwaite, 21, of 31 Shawmut place, Chelsea, committed suicide last night, by throwing himself into the harbor waters from the Maine country wharf on Marginal street, East Boston.

An adjourned meeting of the municipal council was held this forenoon, and the affair proved to be a two-minute meeting. The meeting was held for the purpose of taking action on the proposed $37,000 appropriation for the proposed Summer street extension, but inasmuch as Commissioner Putnam and Morse were not present, the order was read and action was postponed until the next meeting, which will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

A petition from Albert E. Sileo for the installation of a gaslight in Dunfey street was read and referred. The New England Telephone Co., petitioned for a pole location at the corner of Hanks street and Belrose avenue and the petition was referred. Water Consumption

The consumption of water in this city for the past week has increased over 2,000,000 gallons a day according to a statement given by Supt. Thomas this morning.

The daily consumption in the past has been a little less than 6,000,000 gallons, but last week the pumping was increased and the daily increase was noted. The two plants are now pumping about 6,000,000 gallons a day and if the warm weather keeps on the consumption may rise again.

Building Permits

Charles W. Judd has been granted a permit for the addition of a kitchen to his building at 1413 Varnum avenue. The estimated cost of the work being $500.

INSPECTED FILTRATION PLANT

The westerners are becoming interested in Lowell's new filtration plant for yesterday Lafayette Higgins, a member of the state board of health of Iowa came to this city for the purpose of inspecting the new plant on the Pawtucket boulevard.

Mr. Higgins came east for the purpose of getting data on water systems and sewage and he called at the office of Robert Weston, a Boston contractor and a rival of the Gow Construction Co. which constructed the Lowell filtration plant, and where he informed Mr. Weston of his mission. He was told to come to this city, where he would be given an opportunity to inspect one of the best plants of its kind in New England.

Mr. Higgins, after conferring with Commissioner Carmichael and Supt. Thomas, was taken to the plant on the boulevard and there all the workings of the new system were explained to him. The visitor seemed deeply interested and at the conclusion of his inspection, he declared himself much impressed with the plant and he informed his hosts the western states are rather backward in sewerage and water systems.

This week's payroll at city hall amounts to $18,235.47. The monthly bills for August amounted to $61,672.60, while the monthly expenditures for the appropriations for the same month were $46,431.78.

GREAT MASS MEETING

STRIKERS AT ASSOCIATE HALL
ADOPTED FORMAL DEMANDS TO
BE SUBMITTED TO CARTRIDGE CO.

Two large halls in the Runels building were insufficient to accommodate the force of strikers that turned out for the strike meeting this morning and the strike committee and organizers were obliged to hire Associate hall. There were about 1300 in attendance. General Organizer Frank H. McCarthy of the American Federation of Labor opened the meeting and informed the gathering that until their charter arrives from the American Federation of Labor he will be in charge of all strike affairs. He congratulated the strikers on their excellent conduct and said that if they continued their peaceful methods of conducting the strike they would surely win out. He also read a communication drawn up by the strike committee in which the demands of the strikers were set forth. The communication was put before the gathering for rejection or acceptance and it was unanimously adopted. It was then forwarded by special messenger to Capt. Thomas B. Doe, general manager of the U. S. Cartridge Co.

Organizer Whelan
Daniel E. Whelan, organizer for the Boot & Shoe Workers, was next introduced and he was warmly received. Mr. Whelan also congratulated the strikers on their sensible conduct and said that they had the sentiment and backing of the people of the city as a result of the manner in which they have conducted themselves since the strike began. He said the statement reported to have been made by Capt. Doe that the business of the company would move out of Lowell if the strikers did not return to work speedily was plain "humbug." "As a practical business man, which I assume Captain Doe to be," continued Mr. Whelan, "he will see things in the right light within a short time and come to terms." In conclusion the organizer urged the strikers to continue their organization when once started, saying that if they didn't they would be back in the same rut before the end of three months.

Organizer Hall
Organizer Ross Hall of Lynn who was introduced by Organizer McCarthy as a man who is willing at all times to pitch in and help organized labor, attacked the board of trade, saying that this organization will never have the chance again to say that Lowell is a good city to live in because wages are low and there are never any strike troubles.

Organizer Rye
Organizer Rye of Baltimore, Md., urged the strikers to hang together lest they hang separately. He told of conditions in Maryland where the machinists have obtained an eight-hour day and increased wages, and said the same thing is possible in this city.

Organizer Henderson
Organizer Henderson of the International Machinists' union, who has been in charge of the strike in Bridgeport, Conn., was next called upon and he was some time before he was able to speak, such was the applause of the large crowd. Mr. Henderson proved to be an eloquent and forceful talker and he made a decided hit with the gathering. He related incidents of several strikes in which he has participated and stated that a number of them were won by the efforts of women. He characterized the women as "peace angels" and said the men should stick by them as they stand for law and order. He also gave the women strikers much credit for the order that has prevailed in the present strike and urged them to do everything possible to maintain peace among their brothers and sisters. He was given an ovation at the conclusion of his remarks.

New Headquarters
Following the meeting Organizer McCarthy announced that meetings will be held in Associate hall every morning until further notice at 10 o'clock, and that the headquarters of the strike committee hereafter will be in Trades and Labor hall, Middle street, where officials will be on hand to issue every information regarding the strike.

Organizer McCarthy's Statement
In conversation with a Sun representative this morning, Organizer McCarthy said the strikers are confident of eight hours and wages increase being granted by the company officials within a short time. He said there are 3500 names enrolled on the membership list, at the present time and that more are coming in all the time. "Our demands are justified, and the closing down of the plant is sufficient testimony of this," he said. "We want law and order, and we are doing our utmost to further this end. I don't say the U. S. Cartridge Co. is like other concerns which hire professional strike breakers to raise trouble, but we are on the lookout for such an emergency all the time. We positively will not countenance trouble of any kind."

MACHINISTS' MEETING
The machinists employed by the company held a meeting last night in Leather Workers' hall at which demands for an eight hour day with time and one-half for overtime and an increase in wages of 25 per cent was drawn up by the committee representing both the day and night shifts. These demands will be presented to the company at the earliest possible moment. The demands affect over 500 machinists and tool makers, the majority of whom are employed at the big plant in Lawrence street. At present ent they work nine hours a day with time and a quarter for overtime. Last night's session was presided over by Organizer Rosa Hall of the International Machinists' union and a number of prominent local and out-of-town labor men addressed the gathering. The committee conferred in a small ante-room leading off the main hall and their report embodying the above demands was acted upon favorably.

A number of those present wanted to go on record as favoring a larger increase in wages but Organizer Hall advised moderation in the demands. If the demands are granted the machinists will receive $17.50 for a week of 48 hours. The organizer's argument won over the extreme element and there was no dissension.

The majority of the machinists in attendance were day workers but the night men were represented by their authorized committees.

Organizer Daniel P. Whelan was the first speaker introduced and he received a rousing reception. Mr. Whelan urged the men to act intelligently in framing their demands and then stick to them. He said it is about time the workers of Lowell awoke from their deep slumber to demand living wages and sanitary working conditions. He considered the walk-out of the employees to be the best thing that ever happened Lowell and its people.

President Frank Warnock was enthusiastically applauded when he was introduced to the gathering. President Warnock told of the benefits of organization and what it has done for the plasterers' union in this city, which he organized and is a member of. He said organization is the only way in which the workers may hope to obtain what is rightfully theirs and he urged all to join the union and stick by it. Several other labor men spoke after Mr. Warnock.

MR. WOOD'S STATEMENT

BOARD OF ARBITRATION WILL NOT INTERFERE IF PARTIES CAN AGREE OTHERWISE

Mr. Wood of the board of arbitration and conciliation said, after the meeting this morning, in reference to the strike, that the board would take no further action until such time as it becomes known that no progress is being made toward the settlement of the present difficulty. "The company," he said, "will want time to read, digest and discuss the demands of the strikers and that will require a few days. Then we will look for a conference and the board will sit at such time as it becomes plain that its services are required. I rather look for a speedy settlement of the present trouble."

LATE WAR NEWS
Continued

The war may be momentarily expected, according to advices through Copenhagen.

Following Rumania's persistent refusal to allow war supplies for Turkey to pass through her territory, Austro-German troops recently have been sent to the Rumanian frontier, while Rumania has effected the mobilization of large bodies of her troops.

Turco-Bulgarian Agreement
It is reported through Athens that the Turco-Bulgarian agreement will be formally ratified by imperial decree in Constantinople on Sept. 26 and that the new frontier will be traced by German officers.

Amnesty to 100,000 Prisoners
Press advices from Petrograd received in Italy state that Emperor Nicholas has granted amnesty to all political prisoners, who number more than 100,000.

Austrian Destroyers Sunk
Two Austrian torpedo boat destroyers are reported in despatches from Italy to have been sunk by an Italian submarine in the Adriatic.

Artillery Fighting
There have been additional spirited artillery exchanges along the front in France, the heaviest having been particularly notable in the region of Arras, around Roye and in the vicinity of Lassigny. Further down the line, also, the big guns have been active, the firing extending into the Vosges mountain region.

RUSSIANS SHOW INCREASING DISPOSITION TO ASSUME THE OFFENSIVE

LONDON, Sept. 16.—12:40 p. m.—Coincident with Earl Kitchener's optimistic remarks in the house of lords concerning the position of the Russian armies they are showing an increasing disposition to resume the offensive at many points on the eastern front. They are not only pressing their attacks against the Austrians in Galicia but for the most part are holding up the German rush in mid-Poland.

German Hurler Back
The Russians also assert that they have thrown back the invaders near Sviatsynay, where the German cavalry cut the Petrograd railroad between Dvinsk and Vilna. The Germans' battery still holds out at the bridgehead near Dvinsk although the Russians apparently are holding their opponents in check in this region.

Believe Kitchener's Statement
Counting their captures in Galicia, the Russians lately have been taking more prisoners than they have been losing. In England hopes are rising that Earl Kitchener did not make an incautious prediction when he declared

Germany had shot her bolt but that his statement was based on facts. It is said here that von Hindenburg drive is losing its vigor while von Mackensen is striving to overcome the difficulties of the marsh country and the Austrians appear to be unable to regain the upper hand in Galicia.

Balkan Situation
The Balkan situation has not reached a settlement. The British press views Bulgaria's attitude with some anxiety. "Bulgarian aims" says the Manchester Guardian, "form the subject of increasingly anxious thought by the entente powers."

BILLION DOLLAR LOAN

bankers, should be sold at par or at not more than a shade under.

Some financiers here are said to doubt if the American public would subscribe to a straight 5 per cent loan without collateral at more than 95 if that.

The way of the commission in agreeing to a higher rate of interest than 5 per cent would be beset with obstacles. In the opinion of some bankers here, these bankers point out that Great Britain's internal loans have borne interest rates of 4½ and 5 per cent subject to deduction for the income tax which in the case of the largest incomes is as much as 27 per cent.

Bearing in mind the prime necessity that the securities to be offered here for the billion dollar loan must be absolutely free from all British income tax requirements, these bankers point out that the terms which Great Britain and France propose to offer to American investors are infinitely better than the terms offered by these governments to investors at home.

A possibility widely discussed today was that payment for munitions of war should be excluded from the operation of the proposed credit loan; that the big credit loan would be used to pay for the exports of foodstuffs and other items necessary, and that payment for war munitions would be in gold. The report was not commented on, one way or the other, by the commission or others supposed to be in close touch with its program.

Members of the commission seemed to be well satisfied today with the progress made thus far. Millions in pledges, it was reported, had already been secured and more pledges were tentatively assured. Negotiations, it was said, had reached the stage where an authoritative statement from the members of the commission would soon be issued, perhaps tonight.

It developed today that not only had the so-called pro-German group of New York financiers failed to receive invitation to participate in the negotiations although the hint had been dropped that they would welcome it, but the members of the group had become convinced that no such invitation would be forthcoming.

From these sources today came the expression of an opinion that a billion dollar loan was unnecessary and that a credit of from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 would be ample to meet the needs of the country for munitions of war, it was thought, should the situation demand.

It was thought, however, that the credit covering only foodstuffs, cotton, manufactured goods and other necessities. Under no circumstances, it was said, would members of this group participate in a loan which would cover payment of war munitions, even if they were invited.

Anglo-French Plan Now Seems Well on Way to Success—Will Try to Sell Bonds at Par

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—America's $1,000,000,000 loan to Great Britain and France seemed to be well on the way to actual accomplishment last night, according to bankers familiar with the pledges secured by members of the Anglo-French financial committee during their five days' stay in this country.

Announcement at this time that the success of the loan was assured would be, these bankers thought, decidedly premature; but there was every indication, in their opinion, that the commission in work thus far had met with a degree of success which had fully equalled their expectations.

This view reflected the thoughts of the men who have championed the commission's cause here and aided them by hard work. It did not coin-

PASSED FORGED CHECKS

MAN HELD AT MANCHESTER ON CHARGE—MAY HAVE OPERATED HERE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 16.—John McCarthy, alias John Sullivan of Augusta, Me., was held for the superior court today on the charge of passing forged checks. The police claim he is wanted in Dover, Haverhill, Mass., and other New England cities on the same charge.

So far as could be learned from bankers in touch with the commission and its work, the situation last night was about as follows:

Pledges have already been secured for a considerable fraction of the big loan.

Other pledges are in prospect. The so-called pro-German banking houses of New York will be invited to participate in the loan if the commission can be persuaded that they are sincere in their expressions of willingness to do so.

The billion-dollar loan probably will be divided into two and possibly four separate series of equal amounts.

Bonds upon which the loan will be granted will bear not less than 5 per cent. interest and will be payable in dollars, and free from British income tax requirements.

An attempt will be made to sell the bonds at par, in case the interest rate should be 5 per cent. Members of the commission fully believe that such bonds could be disposed of at par, but American bankers have their doubts on this score.

ALLIES' LOAN LEGAL
Lansing Says Plan Does Not Violate International Law as Money Will Be Spent Here

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Sec. Lansing made it plain to inquirers yesterday that no violations of domestic or international law were involved in the proposed flotation by the allies of a large loan in this country.

The secretary explained that the attitude of the Washington government had long been announced; that its expression of disapproval of loans as "inconsistent with the spirit of neutrality" had been occasioned by a direct request for advice by American bankers concerning loans in general, and that the administration voiced its opposition chiefly to loans by popular subscription or those which would take large sums of gold from the United States.

So far as state department officials are able to observe, however, the new loan is essentially what is known as a "credit loan" to pay for obligations incurred or about to be incurred for the purchase of supplies. Such a loan is viewed as a private commercial transaction, not differing from the traffic in contraband or other war supplies, over which a neutral government is not obligated to exercise any control.

Only in the event that the matter is directly brought to the attention of the Washington government for advice is there likely to be any formal expression of opinion in the present instance.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

The last session of congress was remarkable for the great number of important measures put through by the democratic administration. Under the personal leadership of President Wilson almost all of the larger reforms promised in the democratic platform were considered, and relatively unimportant things were left over to the next session. Since then the world has moved wonderfully and questions just as pressing and just as important will call for speedy action when congress again convenes. Most of the problems to be considered have been brought about by the world war.

It now looks as though the big question calling for attention will be the matter of national preparedness, and changes in the army and navy will be advocated. This is not a partisan question, and the administration will have a practical program which may and may not be accepted. There is no indication of a party break along these lines.

The restoration of our merchant marine is in some ways of even greater importance and this too is likely to be taken up. There is no unanimity of opinion as to the best method of attending to this national need, and while the administration will work might and main for government control and ownership, some of the great shipping interests will demand a subsidy and repeal of some existing laws. However it may be done, it is to be most sincerely hoped that the end of the session will mark the beginning of a restored merchant marine.

Unquestionably some efforts will be made to get trade concessions from England, and some pro-Germans will try to secure an embargo on arms and ammunition. If the same activity is shown in congress as out of it, there may be some unsavory revelations through the session. The Mexican question will also call for attention, also the inequalities of the tariff law, the establishing of an American dye industry, the introduction of a federal budget system of finance, and the giving of aid to the farmer to tide him over the war period. In history, the next session may be even more noted than the famous last session.

KEEP OFF TRACKS

A book of statistics just published by the bureau of railroad news, Chicago, states that during 1914 the number of persons killed on the railroads of the United States and Canada was 11,500, and that the number of injured was 205,000. More than 50 per cent of this number it says were trespassers on the lines. Sixteen people are killed on the railroad tracks of the United States and Canada for every day in the year, and this in spite of the fact that everywhere there are laws prohibiting such trespassing. Moreover the railroad expert who compiled the figures says that the great majority of those so killed are not tramps or hoboes but "useful citizens with fixed homes, laboring men walking along tracks or riding cars to and from their work, business men and, in fact, the public generally using railroad tracks as a convenient pathway, persons picking up coal in yards and children 'flipping cars.' He goes on to add: "The real sufferers are the dependent families of the victims; but the public also suffers, first, in being deprived of the services of these killed and maimed, and secondly in the increased burden of caring for those who are thereby made destitute and helpless."

This city is a real offender in this respect in spite of occasional campaigns of safety and prosecutions by the railroad acting in co-operation with the city authorities. In certain places the railroad tracks are available every day as a short cut to work, and hundreds use dangerous track sections in coming and going as though there was no element of danger or as though warning notices did not swing overhead. The railroads and the police authorities seem unable to handle the situation and they depend a great deal on a changed public sentiment. When the great mass of tragedies in this and every other city do not serve as a warning it is doubtful if frequent prosecutions would be any more effective.

EFFICIENCY OVERDONE

Somebody has recently said that every age has its catchword, and that the catchword of this age is "efficiency." Certain it is that the term has been used to explain many new movements and tendencies, and just as every improvement is attributed to efficiency, so every lack of success or system is blamed to inefficiency. In many ways we are in danger of getting away from the ideals of true efficiency and of using it as a blind for serious abuses.

A committee which studied the Taylor system of business efficiency recently reported adversely on it to congress. Following is from the report: "The Taylor system regards the workman as a machine to be speeded up to its maximum capacity. When this human machine fails to function to the satisfaction of the management it is to be cast aside to make room for the new machine—the fresh workman." This is the species of efficiency which may produce temporary dividends for the business involved, but it is a poor poiicy eventually whether in an economic or in a national sense.

The principle of the question is contained in another excerpt from this same report. "By the stop-watch it says 'you may be able to determine the time in which a piece of work may be done, but you do not thereby determine the length of time in which it ought to be done.' The purely mechanical machine may be speeded to the limit, but the human machine must be treated as something different from a piece of machinery if the best results are to be obtained.

When efficiency is carried to extremes, employees are regarded merely as mechanical parts of a whole, and there is no attempt to foster a cordial relationship between employer and employee. Far better that the human side of the worker be kept in mind and that while eliminating waste and inefficiency all employers remember that those who work for them are men and women and not automatons without feelings or human weaknesses. The efficiency that proves injurious to the worker will some day prove injurious to the employer.

FIRES ON SHIPS

An agent of the Fabre line speaking of the fire on the Sant' Anna in mid-ocean a few days ago said that since the war started this line has had considerable trouble with fires that break out either at the docks or during the voyage. He plainly intimated that such fires were set by rabid pro-Germans who in this way wanted to injure the trade of the allies with this country. For the most part, the fires have broken out on freight vessels, but in the case of the Sant' Anna and others they have endangered the lives of thousands of passengers, many of whom were neutrals, and almost all of whom were non-combatants.

So numerous have been the cases of mysterious fires on board the freight and passenger steamers of all lines that it is difficult to doubt that they are due to a deliberate design. One New York paper charges that at least 14 such fires have been set by German emissaries or agents. It will be recalled that the crazed Muenster placed bombs on vessels as a part of his propaganda, and it may be that the many fires set since then have been due to the work of individual fanatics. The government should take very aggressive measures to stop such dastardly and pernicious practices, and if there is any organization behind the outrages it should be exposed and its instigators punished to the full extent of the law. If isolated cranks and fanatics are guilty it will be more difficult to apprehend them, but it ought not to prove impossible.

OUR LOST SUMMER

Our lost summer has been found, but, unlike those in the parable who found something they had lost, we are not rejecting. Just as we thought we were sailing into a mild and grateful fall, behold! old Father Time turned over a few leaves of his book and showed us our lost summer in the lap of Autumn. Those who had planned for September vacations are glad but the rest of us poor mortals have sweetered sadly and recalled the wonderful rainy days of July and August. It is due to imagination merely or is heat in September more depressing than in July? It surely seems as though people could not be more prostrate in mid-summer than they were for the past few days. There is solace in the thought that the coolness of fall cannot be long delayed, for the months will claim recognition for the season that approaches. It is hard to imagine that summer is really gone; the trees have not as yet shown the hues of decay, and the thermometer is higher than for many years at this season. Better that we should be grateful for the measure of sunshine given so liberally at the eleventh hour and anticipate the greater fruitfulness of the fall.

LOAN FOR ALLIES

It is some surprise for American bankers to find that the allied nations show little disposition to beg or bargain in making requisition for a great American loan. France, England, Russia and Italy may have some difficulties in matters of financial exchange but they are by no means short of monetary resources. They can still pay for their supplies in English gold, but they would rather arrange for a great credit system on the lines laid down by American bankers and on their own terms. American financiers will have to compromise if they would hold the trade of the allies, for the shrewd old world is not to be tricked into being bled for the gain of the new. The pro-German opposition to the loan for the allies does not look serious, for while financial gain is concerned, business and politics do not mix very well. It may be that among the names of the bankers who will advance the loan will be found some of a Teutonic cast.

SEEN AND HEARD

O, Yes, a Pleasant Vacation

A quintet of local young women have returned home after an eventful two weeks' camping party. Their instant play at the lake was one continuous round of excitement, and every day some member of the party furnished a thrill that the movie men would give thousands of dollars to duplicate. Mosquitoes and poor cooking caused the greatest amount of trouble and threatened to break up the party on several occasions.

Two of the fair ones had narrow escapes from drowning, one jumping into the water fully clothed from a motor boat that had caught fire from a backfire from the engine, and the other venturing out over her head while bathing at "The Point."

In both instances, however, members of the local police force were "Johnny on the spot" and saving both by sensational rescues. To cap the climax, the cook had her hand burned quite severely by the explosion of a gas-line stove.—Holyoke Transcript.

Was Not Where He Belonged

Talk about getting into "the right church, but the wrong pew," a young man who was calling on his girl one night last week made a worse mix-up than that. On the street where his lady was waiting there are two houses whose walls are always lit by the gas, unavailingly. At any rate, everything about the house was identically the same. The piazza was screened the same way, the hammock has the same position and architecturally the buildings cannot be told apart.

This was not the girl's own house. She was merely visiting it. It will not pay to forget that, otherwise one might think the young man had been imbibing of the water that cheers.

He had been to this house only once or twice before and had forgotten that the house where his friend was stopping was the last one on the street. So he went as usual up the steps, rang the bell, went in the parlor when a man, whom he thought was the girl's uncle, opened the door. He sat down and the man very generously lighted the gas for him. Then he thought there must be visitors at the house. So he conversed amiably for about five minutes before he found he was in the wrong house. It spoiled his evening and he lost five valuable minutes with his friend.—Salem News.

Scotch and Irish Wit

Capt. George E. Worthen, superintendent of state aid, will attend the G. A. R. national encampment in Washington during the week of September, when veterans from all over the country will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the "after the war review" in Washington. The review took place after the Civil war and the captain remembers that the boys of the army of the Potomac wore a blue collar in order to make a good showing in the review. As they passed by, Sherman's men reviewing them from the sidewalks, laughed a bit and referred to them as the "paper collar boys." The next day Sherman's men marched while the army of the Potomac looked on and a band of the Sherman ranks, played "Marching Through Georgia," which caused a son of Erin, who was in the army of the Potomac, to say: "Who couldn't march through Georgia when there was nobody home," meaning that the army of the Potomac had the rebels engaged while Sherman's men marched through Georgia. To this the story Capt. Worthen added another in which a Scotchman delivered a few words that made him famous. Some soldiers passing by had leaves of bread on their bayonet points, an easy way to carry the bread, and as they passed him, the Scot said: "There goes the staff of life on the point of death."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

Despite the warm weather, there are packed houses at every performance at the Opera House this week, with the Emerson Players offering that great mystery melodramatic farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which has such interest been shown in any theatrical venture offered in Lowell and that the Emerson Players have established themselves as premier favorites with the theatregoers of this city and the surrounding towns is shown in the receipts offered the various members of the company. Theatre patrons must wait for the grand finale of the play—and it has taken Lowell by storm.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" tells a wonderful story about William Hollowell Magee, a writer of the dime novel melodrama, who, to win a wager of $5000, goes to Baldpate Inn to write a novel within 24 hours. How he succeeds is wonderfully told in a series of farce melodramatic situations, the play being enacted between the prologue and the epilogue. Theatre patrons must wait for the grand finale of the play—and it has taken Lowell by storm.

Home Barton plays the part of Magee splendidly, offering one of the best exhibitions of acting ever seen in this city. He is a real actor, and his greatest contributions to the American stage and packed houses in New York, Chicago and Boston and throughout the country at $2 is testimonial to the great success of the play.

Order seats early for this banner attraction. It is the hit of the country and hundreds will be unable to secure tickets. Reservations are held until 1.45 and 1.45 except on Saturdays.

Sure end to gray hairs!

Druggists are everywhere. Ask them about this new hair restorer. It is the only one that will restore the color to gray hair, and it is so easy to use that you can use it every day. It is the only one that will restore the color to gray hair, and it is so easy to use that you can use it every day.

when reservations for the matinee performance will be held until 1 o'clock and for the evening performance until 6 o'clock.

Of unusual interest, is being shown in the announcement that "The Yellow Ticket," A. H. Woods' great success, will be the next offering and already there has been a great demand for seats. The play tells a wonderful story of Jewish oppression. It tells the story of pretty Marya Varenka, who is forced to apply for the yellow ticket in order to leave the village to see her dying father. He dies and she is left alone with nothing to protect her but the badge of the social outcast, but she does not live up to its significance. She seeks protection from the chief of the secret police and to protect herself she kills him. A young American journalist has fallen in love with her and how they succeed is told in this strong and gripping play.

H. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

John O'Malley, the doughty Irish tenor, who is one of the brightest spots on the Keith program, this week, is Irish born and Irish bred and he pretends to sing the songs that tell of his homeland and of her people. O'Malley has a hard time of it in early life. Always gifted with a superb voice, he was so poor that it required many sacrifices on his part to enable him to get it trained. He had his eyes on the stage "way back in earlier times, and upon his life and making a positive hit ever after, he appears. While his upper register has all the sweetness of McCormack's voice, his general singing is rather more after the type of the Chauncy Olcott of former days. O'Malley likes to class himself with Olcott, rather than with the famous operatic artist. He is a positive treat. Another banner feature of the week is "Handkerchief No. 15," which is played by Fremont & Co. It is a real comedy, with a real plot. It is filled with excellent situations, and everything considered, is probably the best laughing medium of the season thus far. The Arnold brothers are tumbling clowns who play the whole while they tumble and Clayton & White are boy dancers of extraordinary ability. Ed Estus makes an excellent balancer, and other acts on the bill are the musical comedy "A Summer's Day" and the Everetts. Seats for the remaining performances this week can be obtained in advance at the box office. Phone 25.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

An entirely new list of best motion picture features has been arranged for the remainder of the week, starting with the matinee this afternoon. The headline on the bill for today is the versatile Blanche Sweet in the title role of the five act Paramount picture, "The Case of Becky." This is Miss Sweet's latest release and it is one of her best. Miss Sweet appears in a role of dual personalities. In this play she is a veritable feminine Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. There are many interesting incidents related in this absorbing play in which Miss Sweet appears at her very best. Another picture for the last three days of this week is the three act feature, "The Tides of Time." This is a picture with a gripping theme which everyone should see. The Charlie Chaplin comedy, "Film Johnnies" is a riot of laughter. The performances for today, tomorrow and Saturday conclude with the entertaining and instructive Paramount travel pictures of foreign scenes. Do not forget that even at Submarine picture which shows many interesting under-sea scenes at the Sunday concert, nor the feature, "The Quarry" in seven acts for the first half of next week.

OWL THEATRE

As the five act photo-play "Always in the Way" progresses on the screen, one is more and more enthralled by Mary Miller's delicious personality. She is one of the finest young mimics in the business. As the little girl who was "always in the way" she plays a tear-compelling role with striking realism and sincerity. Five other Mutual movie films complete today's show.

ROCKINGHAM FAIR

Babysland in all its splendor will hold full sway at Rockingham fair, when babies and little girls will have their inning in the baby show, decorated by carriage parade and school girls' white dress parade. Two days will be devoted to the babies and little girls and some hundred prizes will be awarded.

L. M. Rich, the "King of Babysland," who in his twenty years of conducting baby shows from coast to coast, has handled over 100,000 infants, will have charge of the show. Mr. Rich is the originator of the baby show and is well known in this city, where in a few days he will open headquarters to receive entries and supply information regarding the classes and prizes.

The Rockingham baby show will be open to any baby. The grand prize for the most beautiful baby will be a high grade sewing machine, and the grand prize for the most beautifully decorated coach will be a beautiful silver set in a silk lined case. A mother can enter her child in as many classes as she wants to and in the carriage parade as well.

The baby show at Rockingham is one feature that is absolutely free to the mothers and their children, even to admission to the grounds. Arrangements are now being made so as to transport baby's carriage to and from his home without cost.

NEUTRALS SHORT OF RUBBER American Manufacturers' Arrangements With England Causes Shortage of Tires in Northern Countries

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Serious shortage of automobile tires in the neutral countries of Europe, usually supplied by American manufacturers, has followed restriction of rubber exports from the United States. Advice received yesterday by the state department said business in Holland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark was suffering on account of lack of tires.

Under an agreement between the British government and American manufacturers, no rubber products are allowed to go to any European country except through Great Britain, the Americans having entered into the compact to secure supplies of raw rubber from the British East Indies.

As a result neutral countries in Europe, forced to do all their buying through British dealers, have encountered increased prices and in many cases a total lack of supply.

Diplomatic representatives of the United States in Holland and Scandinavia have brought the matter to the attention of the state department, but the manufacturers here are not complaining, as they have no difficulty in disposing of their entire output through Great Britain, where a large part of the supply is used for war purposes.

INSANITY PLEA POSSIBLE SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 16.—A plea of insanity may be offered when the case of Ray Young, charged with three Cossack murders, comes to trial in the superior court.

Have Pink Cheeks, Red Lips Some unfortunate men and women are prone to wonder why some of their friends are blessed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips—while theirs are always colorless. The reason for this last named condition is—there is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The flesh is flabby, too. Well-known physicians assert that the regular administration for several months of 5-grain, Loline tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, make the cheeks pink and the lips red and in general be very beneficial. DIAMOND DAZZLES

And to think that the New England season is closed during this weather.

Pity the poor college and high school football fellows who are trying to practice that game these days.

If the Braves don't land the pennant they'll make the winners know that they've been in a fight.

The St. Louis Americans will play in Boston one week from tomorrow and undoubtedly many Lowell fans will attend the series of three games in the hope of seeing Shorty play.

Shorty Deen's debut with the St. Louis Americans wasn't very auspicious. Shorty was to have left Lowell on Monday morning, but he didn't get away until the last train Monday night. Thus he was riding all night Monday night, not expecting to be put in the lineup the first day. But they put him in and while he scored one run he didn't hit and had two errors on four chances.

The Kimball team sitting in the office of the Kimball System with electric fans to keep them cool talked over their coming game with the P. & O. South Ends, last evening and dug up a lot of strategy to pull upon the South common team when they meet again. The discussion and its results are a profound secret, but Mr. Kimball says you won't know the team when you see them next Saturday they will be so greatly improved.

Manager Hartford, of the Westford team was in town yesterday "on a secret mission" presumably to dig up a few players for his team. Up to last Saturday's game the Westford team has played its regular lineup against all comers with success, but when Graniteville went out and got five New England leaguers for last Saturday's game the Westfords felt justified in strengthening up themselves. Last Saturday they broke away from their rule for the first time by engaging Bailey, a semi-pro pitcher with a reputation, but there are many Westford players who contend that he showed nothing on their own Harry Wright. Bailey will not pitch for Westford next Saturday and Mr. Hartford said step-by-step his question as to the identity of Westford club artist on that occasion.

By a toss of the coin the next and concluding game of the Westford-Graniteville series will be played next Saturday at Westford. The Westford people have a ball grounds that is better than some of the N. E. league grounds. It has a regular official diamond which is kept in shape by a "perpetual care fund." As a general rule no admission is charged at the Westford grounds, but on account of the unusual nature and expense of Saturday's game the fans will have to settle and they're all satisfied to do so.

Here's how they stand:

THE RED SOX ARE
2 games ahead of Detroit.
11 games ahead of Chicago.

THE BRAVES ARE
5 games behind Philadelphia.
2 games behind Brooklyn.

7 games ahead of St. Louis.
7 games ahead of Cincinnati.
7 1/2 games ahead of Chicago.

9 games ahead of Pittsburgh.
11 games ahead of New York.

NO SIX DAY RACE
BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Manager Alec McLean, the promoter of the annual six-day race at the Boston arena, announced last evening that there would be no six-day race at the local track this season.
Owing to the management of the arena and McLean, who represents the local syndicate, not being able to come to terms over the rent of the building and other points, the local promoter has deemed it advisable not to conduct such a contest this year.
10,000 AT READING FAIR
READING, Sept. 16.—The annual fair of the Quannapowitt Agricultural association was successfully launched yesterday and in spite of the torridity attracted a gathering of 10,000. The Wednesday holiday and the closing of schools in Reading and nearby towns helped to swell the total.
It is conceded that the exhibits in all departments surpass in quality and variety any previous exhibition.
Seven granges are making a competitive exhibit. The judges reported last night the relative standing as follows: Reading, 91; Stoneham, 85; Wakefield, 75; Melrose, 68; Saugus, 60; Lynnfield, 49; Winchester, 48.
An interesting school exhibit occupies a considerable space. There is also a baby contest for which there are 77 entries.
Outside the hall there is an automobile and carriage exhibit and a midway with excellent features.

COBB HAS LOST HIS BATTING EYE—DETROIT FANS WORRYING

There is cause for gloom in the Tiger camp and in Detroit, and everybody from Hughey Jennings down to the humblest fan is feeling blue. The cause for all the sorrow is the sudden loss of the batting optics of the great and only Ty Cobb. Cobb has been in a batting slump for the past month, and the Tiger clan has slipped up on chances innumerable to overtake the leaders merely because the "Georgia peach" was "not there" in the pinches. Cobb is still leading the pack in batting, despite his slump, but his lead has been greatly reduced, and if he continues to fan the ozone and to "hit 'em where they are," some one of those who are now barking at his heels in the race for batting supremacy will wrest this lead from him. Cobb has lost over thirty points since his slump began, and he now has a margin of only about twenty points over his nearest rival. This would be a pretty safe margin at this stage of the proceedings if he were batting in his usual form, but with his batting only a quarter of what it usually is the lead is none too safe, and if he doesn't regain his "punch" for the balance of the season there is a bright chance of another taking the batting crown away from him.

slowly up Canal street to Haymarket square, up Washington street to Summer street and thence to the South station.

Here the body was received by a delegation from the Massachusetts commandery, Loyal Legion, with Recorder C. W. C. Rhodes in command. In the delegation were Col. A. A. Rand, Col. F. S. Haseltine, Capt. Charles Hunt and Commander H. E. Rhodes, U. S. N. As the train pulled out at 5 o'clock the delegation stood with bared heads and Mrs. Forsyth, from a car window

THOUSANDS WERE KILLED

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The Daily News, in an article yesterday, says it was through German treachery that the great Russian ammunition factory at Oskita, a suburb of Petrograd, was blown to pieces some months ago.

Okhta was the Russian Woolwich, the only munition factory in Russia.

"This had a determining influence on the Russian military situation," the Daily News says, "as the allies had to come to the rescue by the circuitous Archangel route. Thousands of workmen were killed and the destruction of the plant caused such an extreme dearth of ammunition that nothing could be done against the German Gen. Von Mackensen's artillery."

"Russia, quite crippled had to fight for time, and the striking power of France and Great Britain was checked. All thought of the proposed great spring offensive had to be given up and the chief energies of allies bent to the task of supplying Russia with a munitions, which suddenly had become to her a matter of life and death."

Press despatches from Bucharest state that the Turks already have begun to carry out provisions of the co-Bulgarian agreement. They have abandoned the barracks at Karagatch and destroyed the forts on the right bank of the Maritza river, taking the guns and barbed wire of the Gallipoli peninsula.

The Bulgarian prefect at Straz Zagora has gone to Adrianople to arrange to take formal possession of the ced territory in the presence of his Turkish and Bulgarian ministers on Sept. 15. The Turkish vail of Adrianople has gone to Constantinople to obtain instructions from the ports on the same subject.

SOON TO ENTER THE WAR

RUMANIA'S PARTICIPATION IN CONFLICT EXPECTED AT ANY MINUTE

LONDON, Sept. 16, 10.30 a. m.—A Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co. says German newspapers were permitted yesterday to publish sensational telegrams intimating that Rumania's participation in the war may be expected at any minute.

The massing of German and Austrian troops on the Rumanian frontier has resulted in the Balkan nation making preparations for eventualities. A large part of her army already has been mobilized and reservists in other countries have been ordered home.

A steadfast refusal of Rumania to permit the transportation through her territory by Germany of military supplies for Turkey is supposed to have aroused the animosity of the central power.

Recent advices from Rome were to the effect that negotiations were under way for the formation of a new Balkan league to be composed of Rumania, Serbia and Greece. Bulgaria, it was said, was not included in the negotiations because of her agreement with Turkey by which she will obtain possession of territory along the Baghdad railway. Montenegro probably would act in accord with the other three powers, as she already is arrayed on the side of the allies in the war.

"YOU LOOK IT" SAYS FOSS

EX-GOVERNOR RETORIC TO A TICKET IN LYNN WHO OPPOSES NATIONAL PROHIBITION

LYNN, Sept. 16.—Ex-Gov. Foss took child labor and general labor conditions as his theme in two addresses to Lynn voters yesterday noon.

He urged more stringent labor laws and proposed legislation to make strikes impossible.

"When a man in the audience shouted, 'We don't want national prohibition!' Ex-Gov. Foss retorted scornfully, 'You look it!'" Mr. Foss said he saw a national republican victory in 1916 on the issue of prohibition if such a plank was adopted.

Mr. Foss is a political opponent of Martin Lomasney in the West End.

ALLEGED STRIKE PLOT LINER ASHORE

O'Connor Reiterates His Charges and Cummings Again Issues a Contradiction

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The New York Sun has secured an interview with Thomas V. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's Union, on the story emanating from New York of the attempt of European agents to bribe O'Connor with $100,000 if he would call a strike of 35,000 longshoremen, through Matthew Cummings of Boston.

Mr. O'Connor is in Toledo attending a district conference of longshoremen. The story is entirely true, he said. The idea of the strike was to tie up the movement of war munitions to the allies. Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador, was indirectly connected with the deal.

In an address to delegates on Tuesday, Pres. O'Connor said: "I was offered $100,000 by Matthew Cummings of Boston if I would call a general strike. I revealed the whole plot to the government. I was amazed at the magnitude of the proposition. In New York and Boston with Cummings. I then reported all my details to Secretary of Labor W. B. Wilson. He hurried to New York where Pres. Wilson was reviewing the big naval fleet, and related to him the proposal of Cummings."

From that time on the government has taken active interest in the affair. "Cummings said his scheme was that of the Irish societies working in conjunction with the German societies of the United States. I insisted that before I go through with the deal I should know at once whence the money came."

"Cummings turned to use a telephone and the number he called, I learned a few moments later was in the office of George Sylvester Viereck, editor of the Fatherland."

Cummings denied this. This paper has already published the long official statement of Cummings denying the statements of Mr. O'Connor and branding the whole story as a plot and a frameup by the men who make the charges. Mr. Cummings in a Boston paper today again denies that he had anything to do with the alleged plot and he calls O'Connor and Dempsey a number of hard names. The claim that Cummings had any control over any Irish society in this country is known to be false although he frequently, without authority, undertook to speak for Irish societies collectively.

DEAD MAN NOMINATED NAVAL ADVISORY BOARD

DIED ON DAY PRECEDING THE PRIMARY AND NAME WAS ON BALLOT

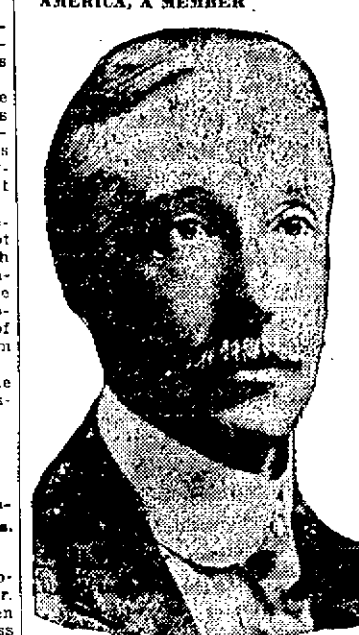

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 16.—A curious complication has arisen in Wisconsin county as a result of Tuesday's democratic primary.

For the first time, probably, in the history of the state a dead man was nominated for office. Ernest A. Todd, who died suddenly Monday, was returned as nominated over J. Clayton Kelley for clerk of the circuit court.

As Mr. Todd died on the day preceding the primary, his name could not be removed from the ticket. Although the fact of his death was known generally throughout the county his name received 200 more votes than his opponent in the party and the judges of election were compelled to declare him nominated.

It is said that Kelley will claim the nomination and will fight out the question in court.

ELMER A. SPERRY WHO PERFECTED ONE OF FIRST ARC LIGHTS IN AMERICA, A MEMBER

ELMER A. SPERRY

Elmer Ambrose Sperry, who perfected one of the first arc lights in America before he was 20 years old and who today is one of the world's foremost inventors of electrical appliances, is one of the members of the naval advisory board. He was one of the first to produce electrical mining machinery, electrical street railway cars, electric motor vehicles and gasoline automobiles; he perfected the gyroscopic compass and was the first to produce entirely practical apparatus for the stabilization of ships and aeroplanes. His achievements have been recognized by the first prize of the Aero club of France and the medal of the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chaplin won the first prize for costumes and in the athletic events Cassie McSorley was the star performer, winning three firsts and beating out the boys of her age in the high jump and the 50 yards race. The Page company catered.

Euphrate Aground on Island of Socotra—All Aboard Rescued

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 16, 6.05 a. m.—The liner Euphrate, owned by the Messageries Maritimes, has gone ashore on the island of Socotra. Passengers and crew have been taken off by passing steamers. It is feared the Euphrate will be a total loss.

The Euphrate is a steamer of 6875 tons, 447 feet long, with a beam of 52 feet. She was last reported to have sailed from Saloon, French Cochinchina, Aug. 24, for Marseilles. Socotra island, on which the Euphrate is reported to have gone aground, is in the Indian ocean near the entrance to the Gulf of Aden and 135 miles east-northeast of Cape Guardafui. It is about 80 miles in length and the capital is Tamarida, on the north coast.

FORFEITED TO THE CROWN

BRITISH PRIZE COURT CONDEMNS U. S. PRODUCTS FORMING CARGOES OF FOUR SHIPS

LONDON, Sept. 16, 3.33 p. m.—The British prize court today condemned the greater part of the American products forming the cargoes of four steamships. The products, valued at several million dollars, are declared forfeited to the crown.

The judgment was delivered by Sir Samuel L. Evans, president of the court. It involves the cargoes of the Norwegian steamships Kilm, Alfred Nobel, Bjornstjerne-Bjornsen and Fridland. All the goods on these vessels were made by the American producers, consisting principally of American meat products are confiscated with the exception of a small proportion which the court released to claimants.

The case has been pending for several months. The steamships were seized last November and though efforts were made by the American producers to obtain an early trial the British authorities set the hearing for June. The hearing closed last month and judgment was reserved until today.

In a lengthy judgment, Sir Samuel said it was plain these ships were carrying towards Copenhagen, when captured, more than 13 times the amount of goods which, under normal circumstances, would have been taken to that port. That fact gave practical and overwhelming assurance that the goods were intended to find their way to Germany, although of course it did not prove conclusively that they were destined for an enemy of Great Britain.

One circumstance throwing light on the real destination of the goods, Sir Samuel said, was that the exportation of land by one American company alone to Copenhagen in three weeks after the outbreak of the war, was 20 times more than in periods of peace. As to the nature of the goods, he said, had not been shown they had been sent to Denmark in any great quantity before the war, yet hundreds of thousands were on the way when the vessels were captured. These lines, it seemed, could not have been meant for any persons other than German soldiers.

Referring to the consignments of rubber, described as gum, the president said: "I have come to the conclusion that gum is not a true commercial description for rubber and that it was used in the ship's manifest in order to avoid the difficulty which would result in its capture by a belligerent. Any concealment of this sort will, while it is in the port of capture, weigh heavily against those who adopt such courses."

COMPLETE LOSS TO PACKERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The meat cargoes confiscated by Great Britain will be a complete loss to the packers, according to Thomas E. Wilson, president of Morris & Co., as there were no advance payments made on the shipments.

BARS SECTARIAN ISSUES

WOMEN FAVOR AMENDMENT BY STATE FEDERATION—EQUAL SUFFRAGE STARTS ACTIVITY

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Mrs. William Lowell Putnam and other leading anti-suffragists who attended the meeting of the Association of Non-partisan Clubwomen in the Twentieth Century club yesterday afternoon expressed the opinion "that the discussion of politics was futile, since no drastic measures were taken to offset the vote for the equal suffrage amendment at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs at Marlborough."

Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan of Natick, who presided, said: "This association is not a federal body and we have no power to ask for a reconsideration or to rescind that vote; but we can, for the sake of peace and harmony, let bygones be bygones and work for an amendment to be presented through the federated clubs, which shall in future prevent the discussion being used by the injection of partisan or sectarian issues."

Mrs. Gamaliel Bradford of Wellesley Hills gave a brief outline of the policies, which she declared "are by no means a resentment or retaliation, and which, it is hoped, will bring both suffragists and anti-suffragists into harmony."

Among the reforms urged was more care in the appointment of delegates to federation meetings who will express by their votes the will of the clubs which they represent and to urge clubs to pay the expenses of delegates.

WATCHMAN MISTAKEN FOR A YEGGMAN WAS KILLED—AWARD OF $4000 TO WIDOW CONTESTED

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Whether or not William A. Harbroe, a night watchman in the employ of the First-Clark Construction company, who was shot in a revolver duel with Deputy Sheriff Hart of Buzzards Bay, each having mistaken the other for a yeggmán, sustained the fatal injury in the course of his employment or incidental thereto, is the question raised in a case before the supreme court. The Industrial Accident board found in favor of the widow, Mrs. Edna Harbroe, awarding her $4000 in weekly payments. The insurer of the construction company, the Fletcher and Deming company, of Portland, denied liability, contending the accident was not incidental to the employment of Harbroe. The case is going to the full bench of the supreme court.

Pending the appeal the insurance company wished payments suspended, but Judge Bray refused to grant the petition. He also found the evidence warranted the findings of the Industrial Accident board. Sheriff Hart, who was searching for yeggmán who had blown up the safe in the Bourne postoffice, when he came across Harbroe and a companion, showed that he was an officer and ordered them to hold up their hands. Harbroe, who heard only the latter part of this, opened fire and was fatally wounded by Hart.

GERMANS LOSE COLONIES

ALLIES OBTAIN REMARKABLE RESULTS ALONG 3000 MILE FRONT IN AFRICA

PARIS, Sept. 16.—"Fighting continually in Africa since last September along a front of more than 2000 miles, the French colonial troops, aided by the British allies, have obtained remarkable results," said Gaston Doumergue, minister of colonies, to the Associated Press yesterday.

"German East Africa," the minister continued, "will soon be the only colony possessed by Germany, with the exception of a small part of the Kameruns. The older German possessions are occupied by either French or English, or jointly."

"When one considers the difficulties of transportation in the interior of the Kamerun, not only of food but of munitions and cannon of our expeditionary columns, our success appears to be still more evident and meritorious."

"A number of French columns marching from east to west and from south to north already have covered more than 600 kilometers (about 373 miles) and fighting continuously, have established junctions and thus surrounded the enemy on three sides, while Anglo-French columns are cutting off the coast toward the interior and the British vessels."

"The fighting in the colonies, bears a great resemblance to that on the western front. Trenches, barbed wire entanglements and machine gun observation posts have been cleverly discovered and utilized by the Germans, who have shown here, as elsewhere, the greatest preparations for war. Our enemies had even sent to Africa some aeroplanes, which the allies fortunately brought down soon as they appeared."

"Gara," with a population of over 20,000 and an important garrison, was besieged for several months and only fell when I ordered a gun of large caliber transported there from Morocco. It was brought upon boats along about 100 kilometers (62 miles) of winding waterways to the coast, and the effect of the projectiles was so terrific that after a short bombardment the population and garrison of Gara requested permission to surrender."

"The climate and the nature of the ground opposed great difficulties to the march of our troops, but fortunately they were overcome. In this respect refer to the excellent organization of our sanitary service, thanks to which our losses due to disease were greatly reduced."

MR. BRASSARD HURT

Arthur H. Brassard, a former resident of this city and now of Lynn, suffered a bad accident yesterday near home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brassard in Mt. Hope street. Mr. Brassard came to attend the wedding of his brother, Mark, which took place Tuesday. Yesterday forenoon he left the house on his way to his home, when he slipped and sprained his left foot. He was treated by Dr. G. O. Lavallee and it is feared it will be several days before he can use his limb.

MILLIONS PLEDGED FOR BILLION DOLLAR LOAN

Standard Oil Millionaires Considering Terms With a View to Participating

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Standard oil millionaires, including John D. Rockefeller, Jr., it was reported today, are considering the terms of the proposed billion dollar credit loan to Great Britain and France with a view to participating.

J. P. Morgan, the fiscal agent in this country of Great Britain and France, called at the Standard Oil offices late yesterday. Other conferences, it was said, were held today.

A representative of Mr. Rockefeller positively declined to comment on the situation, one way or the other, and Mr. Morgan refused to discuss the matter.

According to report, Mr. Morgan placed before Mr. Rockefeller and his associates the tentative details of the loan so far as they relate to the interest rate, the term of the loan and its size and sought their views as to its attractiveness from the standpoint of the investor.

A persistent report was current late today to the effect that the commission had decided to limit the size of the loan to half a billion dollars, instead of the billion proposed at first.

According to this report, the loan would be in the nature of a joint obligation of Great Britain, France and Russia, would run six years and bear

5 per cent. interest. No part of the loan, this report had it, was to be spent in paying the big bills due American makers of war munitions, these obligations to be paid for in gold.

Two syndicates, according to this report, would be identified with the flotation of the loan—an underwriting syndicate and a selling syndicate, each composed of some of the most prominent men of the country in their respective circles.

Rate of Interest

Members of the Anglo-French financial commission and American bankers engaged in the proposal of a billion dollar credit loan to Great Britain and France have somewhat different ideas, it became known today, as to some of the terms governing the loan, chief of which, it is reported, is the rate of interest.

The commission is said to hold 5 per cent. as the maximum rate. Many American bankers believe that the mammoth issue should yield at least 5½ per cent to the investor, and there is talk in some quarters of requiring 6 per cent.

A 5 per cent loan, the commission is reported as having said to visiting

DEMANDS OF STRIKERS SENT TO CARTRIDGE CO.

Strikers at Mass Meeting Demand 8-Hour Day and Increase in Wages—
State Board of Arbitration Confers
With Labor Leaders at City Hall

The U. S. Cartridge company's works closed down completely this noon when Captain Doe found that the machinists remaining could not be kept at work with the other departments idle.

Sensible level-headed labor leaders have overcome the chaos of disorganization in the strike; they have enrolled most of the strikers in a union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and have submitted their formal demands to Captain Doe, manager of the company's works.

These demands were adopted amid great enthusiasm at a mass meeting held at Associate hall this forenoon.

Organizer Frank H. McCarthy of the A. F. of L., has full charge of the strike for the present and can be relied upon to do what is reasonable.

A feature of the forenoon's work was a brief conference of the strike leaders with Commissioner Wood of the state board of arbitration. Mr. Wood wanted to confer with the leaders before seeing the Cartridge company officials. The coming of the board may bring about an early settlement, as one of the articles of the strikers' demands provides for arbitration in case of disagreement between the parties.

Strikers' Demands

After due deliberation the leaders

in charge of the strike sent the following communication, setting forth the strikers' demands, to Capt. T. B. Doe, manager of the U. S. Cartridge Co.'s plants:

Boston, Sept. 16, 1915.
Mr. Thomas B. Doe, General Manager,
United States Cartridge Co., Lawrence street, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir: By direction of the Lowell Cartridge Workers' union, an organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, being composed entirely of people employed by your company, I submit to you the following schedule of hours, wages and labor conditions with the hope the same will meet with approval of and acceptance by your company.

Section 1. All operators and general workers employed shall be members in good standing of the Lowell Cartridge Workers' union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, or become such within 10 days from date of employment.

Section 2. The hours of labor shall not exceed eight per day and shall be arranged as not to include the performance of work from 6 p. m. on Saturdays to 7 a. m. on the following Mondays.

Section 3. All overtime shall be paid for at the rate of time and one-half excepting such time as may be worked between 6 p. m. Saturdays and 7 a. m. on the following Mondays and on legal holidays, for all of which double time shall be paid.

Section 4. The present wages of all male operators, fixers and general workers shall be increased 15 per cent.

Section 5. Present wages of all female operators shall be increased 20 per cent.

Section 6. All hand loaders shall be placed on a weekly wage basis and shall be paid not less than eleven ($11) dollars per week.

Section 7. There shall be established a definite weekly pay day and a specified time set for the paying off of all shifts on said day.

Section 8. Every employee taking part in the existing strike who was on the payroll of the company of September 10th, 1915, or later, shall return to the work vacated by them without discrimination of any kind.

Section 9. In the event that any differences should arise between the company and the union in relation to this agreement or any other matter that cannot be settled satisfactorily by representatives of the company and the union in conference said matters of disagreement shall be referred for final adjustment to the Massachusetts state board of conciliation and arbitration and the company and the union agree to accept decision of such board as binding.

Section 10. This agreement shall remain in effect until September 1, 1916. I am further directed to say that the Cartridge Workers' union has appointed a committee to take charge of its affairs and said committee will be pleased to confer with you on the above schedule at any time and place that would meet with your convenience.

Noting that the propositions as stated will meet with your approval and thereby restore harmony between your company and organized labor, which we believe will be mutually beneficial and trusting for an early reply, I am, Respectfully yours,

Frank H. McCarthy,
General Organizer American Federation of Labor.

VON MACKENSEN WINS VICTORY OVER RUSSIANS

Occupation of Pinsk Marks Advance

Russian Reserves Called—France
Appropriates $1,240,000,000

The Russian city of Pinsk, at which Field Marshal von Mackensen has been driving, has been taken. The capture of the city was announced by German army headquarters today.

The occupation of Pinsk marks an eastward advance by the Germans of nearly 100 miles since the taking of Brest-Litovsk on Aug. 25. Further successes have been scored by the Germans in their fight for Riga, Berlin announcing an advance along the Dvina in the direction of Jacobstadt.

British Submarine Lost

The probable loss of the British submarine E-7 off the Dardanelles is announced by the British admiralty.

Russian Reserves Called

The reserves of the Russian territorial army have been called to the colors.

Deep feeling has been stirred in Russia by the announcement that President Goremykin has been authorized to promulgate the duma, Petrograd advises state.

$1,240,000,000 for France

A bill appropriating $1,240,000,000 for the expenses of France during the last quarter of the year was introduced in the French chamber of deputies today by Finance Minister Ribot. France already has advanced $139,000,000 to her allies, the French minister announced. He estimated the average monthly war expenses of Russia, based on the latest financial reports at $360,000,000; those of Germany at nearly $500,000,000 and Great Britain's in excess of the latter amount.

American Goods Condemned

Several millions of dollars worth of American goods, mostly meat products, carried by four steamships have been declared forfeited to the crown by a British prize court. The court held that the products were destined for the German government and not for consumption in Denmark, whither the vessels detained were bound.

RECORD CROWD AT THE BALL GAME IN BOSTON

Red Sox and Tigers Open Important Series—Cobb Boomed
by Crowd—Detroit Leads

FENWAY PARK, Boston, Sept. 16.—Probably the largest crowd of the season at this park saw the Red Sox, leading the American pennant race by two and one-half games, meet the Detroit Tigers, holders of second place, today. It was the first game of a series of four, the result of which will go far to decide the championship. For Boston, Foster pitched and Thomas caught; Dauss and Stanage were the battery for Detroit.

The Tigers scored at the outset. Bush was passed, Vitt sacrificed him to second, and with Scott pulled out of position on a hit and run play, Cobb cracked a single through short, Bush scoring. Cobb himself scored a moment later when Veatch's rap took a bad bound over Scott's head. Speaker's catch of Crawford's fly and a direct throw to Hoblitzel to catch Veach at first started a double play which retired the side.

Cobb Boomed by Crowd
The second and third innings were without score, due to effective pitching and fielding. Gardner's poor throw to first on Young's hit in the second inning allowed the runner to reach second base but he stopped there. The Red Sox had gained only one hit off Dauss up to the fourth, that a single by Gardner in the second. Cobb, usually a favorite in this city, was booed by the crowd.

MAYOR MURPHY SAID TO FAVOR
STARTING WORK ALTHOUGH
PLANS ARE NOT SETTLED UPON

W. T. S. Bartlett and Harry W. J. Howe, acting as a committee of residents of Pawtucketville, held a private conference with Mayor Murphy this morning relative to the proposed Pawtucket bridge and before the two gentlemen left the mayor's office, Mayor Murphy assured them he will offer a motion at the next meeting of the municipal council, authorizing the commissioner of streets and highways to start immediately on the preliminary work of the bridge, which means that Commissioner Morse will be informed to start the excavation in the river. The conference was held prior to the meeting of the council. Mr. Howe informed Mayor Murphy that the residents of Pawtucketville wish to deal with the present administration before it goes out of office and he said it was up to the mayor and other members of the council to get busy and finish business which they have started.

"Inasmuch as the majority of the members of the council have declared themselves in favor of a cement bridge," continued Mr. Howe, "we feel that the preliminary work should be started at once in order to have the excavating done before high water. The Pawtucket bridge is a matter that concerns you and it is up to you to get things going."

The mayor assured his visitors he was in favor of starting preliminary work at once and in order to show his sincerity, he informed them he would at the next meeting of the council present a motion authorizing Commissioner Morse to start excavating at once.

The plans of the bridge have not been finally settled upon.

CAPT. DOE INTERVIEWED

HE ANSWERS SEVERAL QUESTIONS
RELATIVE TO THE U. S. CARTRIDGE CO. STRIKE

In order to ascertain how much truth might be in certain rumors on the street this morning a Sun reporter called on Capt. T. B. Doe, manager of the U. S. Cartridge Co.'s plants.

Asked if it were true that those who did not strike but were laid off will receive full pay while they "hang out," Capt. Doe said on that question he could not make a positive statement.

The captain was asked if any different arrangements as to night work would be made when the new buildings are completed.

"It will be useless for the company to continue building," he said, "if it is going to be hampered by labor troubles."

As to the closing of the plant," said Capt. Doe, "there was nothing left for us to do. We are going to close the machine shop at noon and then the whole plant will be closed. There are about 500 machinists working this forenoon. I do not know how long the plant will remain closed."

In reply to a query relative to the number of hours which the women worked and the average pay for the women, Capt. Doe said that each shift worked seven hours and a half, with a half hour for lunch, with extra pay for any overtime. He said that last month the girls averaged $7 a week. "That is not very big pay," said the captain, "but a great many of the girls do not produce very much for several weeks after they start. All of them come in unskilled and the company has to pay them while they are learning. I think that $6.50 a week is the smallest we have paid and a great many of them earn good wages."

The question of arbitration was broached and Capt. Doe said the company had nothing to arbitrate. He also stated that he had not heard from the state board of arbitration and conciliation, although a member of the board was in the city.

"A few of the operatives are responsible for the present state of affairs," the captain said. "We have been using everybody well and I think we cannot improve on what we have been doing."

"The machinists work nine hours a day and sometimes more. They are paid time and a quarter for overtime. We would like to keep the machinists going but there is nothing for them to do that would be of a real benefit to us at this time."

Asked as to the average weekly payroll the captain said he would not care to give it even approximately. He was asked if it would average between $55,000 and $60,000 and he allowed that might be a pretty good guess. The company employs somewhere in the vicinity of 4000 hands.

CHALIFOUX'S

MIDDLESEX NORTH FAIR BOARD OF TRADE

Fine Exhibits Shown in Every Department—Today's Events—Prizes Awarded

Despite the heat the attendance at the fair conducted at the Grange hall, Draught Centre under the auspices of the Middlesex North Agricultural society was largely attended today and such to the pleasure of the organizers the gathering was much larger than yesterday.

The various exhibits throughout the building were viewed with much interest, while the school exhibit of vegetables and plants in the field adjoining the building was again the chief attraction. The fair this year was conducted on a much larger scale than those of previous years and the result was very satisfactory to all interested.

Today's program was varied and interesting. The first number was, as usual, a good farmer's dinner, which was attended by many and which was served at 12 o'clock. At 2 o'clock an exhibit of decorated automobiles took place and four valuable prizes were awarded the owners of the best decorated cars.

At 2:15 o'clock all repaired to the adjoining field, where sporting events consisting of the following numbers were conducted: Running broad jump, shot put, 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, high jump, light shot boys' race, 880-yard dash, girls' race, ladies' race, etc. This proved one of the features of the afternoon.

Later an automobile slow race was in order, conducted by lady drivers. The most interesting number of the afternoon was without doubt the firemen's contest for volunteer companies. This was limited to 8 men to a company and the contest consisted of the following numbers:

Laying and coupling 200 feet of hose, raising at least 60 feet of ladders. Turn stream on and break paper target on roof of building. Picking up and returning hose, ladders, tools, etc., to starting point.

Hose, ladders, playpipes, wrenches, etc., to be coupled midway between building and hydrant. Hose to be rolled up in coils, female coupling outside. Men to be in line at hydrant. Time to be taken from sound of gong until target is broken.

Picking up hose to be taken when target is broken until men are in line same as starting. Prizes: Fastest time breaking target, $15 and silver loving cup, presented by Senator George E. Marchand.

Second: Fastest time breaking target, $10. Picking Up: Winning company, $5. The judges for the decorated automobiles were Rev. Ernest C. Bartlett, of the Draught Congregational church; Rev. Samuel Dupertuis of the Hillside Congregational church and Rev. W. E. Lettinger of the Centralville M. E. church.

The firemen's contest was in charge of Chief Frank Gunther of the Draught fire department, while the sporting events were conducted by the following: Guy Randall, William Dennett and Mr. E. Brennan of Lowell; high school, Caleb Rogers of the Parker avenue school, Thomas Farrell and William Conway.

What Dyspeptics Should Eat
Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bismarck magnesium is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which induces the delicate stomach lining. It does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. Do not use an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs but get rid of the acid cause of all the trouble. Get a Bismarck magnesium from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the Bismarck magnesium as directed above, and note remarkable results.

Active Campaign for the Winter Planned—Many New Schemes

The first meeting of the season of the board of trade directors took place last evening in Page's restaurant with 19 directors present and a full campaign, full of activity was launched. The plans include a fashion week beginning Sept. 24 for the benefit of the merchants; an exposition of goods made in Lowell during a week in November; investigating and deciding a course of action upon the six cent those to speak on the street railway urging a water department census of Lowell to check up on the tally of the state enumerators, which is believed to be below the actual population of the city, and booming projects now under way.

The question of whether or not the board of trade should oppose the six-cent fare as petitioned for by the Bay State Street Railway was discussed and referred to the transportation committee with a request that the committee investigate fully and report to the next meeting of the directors, which will be held Oct. 5. Among those to speak on the street railway matter were Senator George E. Marchand, Judge Frederick A. Fletcher, Daniel P. Cahill and Stanley E. Qua. An outline of what the changes would mean locally was published in Monday's Sun.

Letter to Municipal Council
The following communication to be sent to the municipal council was authorized by the directors:

The directors authorized the following communication to be sent to the municipal council:

Lowell, Mass., Sept. 13, 1915.
Municipal Council of the City of Lowell.

Gentlemen:—The Lowell board of trade respectfully requests your honorable body to authorize and instruct the commissioner of the water department to have a census of the residents of the city of Lowell taken at the time of the next general meter readings, for the purpose of securing a total of the population of Lowell from a source independent of the state's census.

This can be done, it is believed, with little trouble and expense and, if done carefully and completely, will be of considerable value to the city.

The state census of this year, according to the preliminary announcement of its figures, gives Lowell an increase in population since 1910 of 10,000. The board of trade and all other whose business requires reference to the population statistics of Lowell have expected a total of approximately 115,000, or a gain of between 7000 and 8000 instead of the 1000 which has been reported.

In view of the fact that the records of the city show a margin of 4720 births since 1910, and in view of the further fact that new industries employing conservatively 2750 hands, all of whom, with their families, came to the city with the new industries, it is felt that the state enumeration has not accounted for the entire population of the city.

It is realized that three important industrial concerns in Lowell have curtailed, but to no such degree as to offset the growth of population as suggested above, especially in view of the fact that the United States Employment Service, which has been operating in Lowell since the summer of 1914, has undoubtedly given employment to many who have left the city before curtailment by the Saco-Lowell shops and the Bigelow-Hartford Corporation.

Furthermore, the schools show at the opening sessions this year more than the normal increase in number of pupils. The board was not naturally the first to have Lowell reaffirmed as a city to the population statistics of the state.

Real estate dealers are on record as stating that there are far fewer tenements vacant in Lowell than was the case five years ago and at the same time there has been a distinct and noticeable increase in the construction of new residential property.

For these reasons the board of trade would like to check up the enumeration of the 1915 census and believes there is no easier or quicker way to do it than by means of a water census.

Summer Activities
Secretary Murphy gave a brief statement of the matters taken up by himself and by the executive committee during the summer months. He outlined these as follows:

The board was directly responsible for preventing the trade travel coupons and the red stamps from being introduced to use in Lowell.

Secured for the Lowell high school the Swan collection of shells, insects, pressed flowers and other small relics. Secured the location in Lowell of the Fuller-Osborn Co., manufacturers of skirts.

Secured the $45 p. m. train from Boston and the 1:05 p. m. Saturday train from Boston on the winter schedule.

Secured the relocation of Agent Parlin of the Boston & Maine railroad at his former office in the railroad station as a convenience to shippers.

Secured authority from President Illustrious that freight delivery would be made on Warren street, providing the delivery was intended for tenants for the Middlesex mills. This opens up a field in that district for the manufacturing development of the section.

Posted various signs showing direct routes through the city and also erected danger signs at intersecting routes. Published in the newspapers a memorial, calling upon people of Lowell who spend their summer vacations elsewhere to purchase all their supplies in Lowell. Interested the Grocers' association in this matter.

Conducted an employment bureau for young people during vacation and placed in position 23 boys and four girls.

Assisted in the location in Lowell of the George H. Snow Co. of Brockton and called the attention of shoe manufacturers to the advantages of Lowell. Urged a change in location of the steps in the proposed Boston & Maine plans for a new bridge at Chelmsford street.

By means of stories published in the papers succeeded in driving clothing salesmen representing the Boston dealers from the city.

Extended invitations to the visiting governors of the United States at their conference in Boston to visit Lowell. Arranged an official visit to the Sixty-ninth regiment.

Interviewed Colonel Craighead on various occasions concerning improvement of the Merrimack river.

Investigated both the wholesalers and retail dealers regarding prices of gasoline in other cities for the purpose of comparison with the prices in Lowell.

Arranged a meeting of the larger employers of labor to attend a meeting to be addressed by Miss Antoinette Greely on welfare work.

Spent considerable time showing factory locations to prospective manufacturers.

GERMAN TRENCH ORCHESTRA

In the accompanying illustration is shown an actual scene in a trench in Poland. German soldiers are seen giving a concert. There was a lull in the battle, and the strains of popular German music ball airs, lively two steps and dreamy waltzes floated on the air. The concert was heard by the Russian forces, who were camped not far away, and at its conclusion there was hearty cheering, which brought forth an encore.

PIER RIOTERS ON TRIAL

Men Face Jury for Trouble in Boston on August 15—Judge Warns Jurors

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Two police sergeants, numerous patrolmen, custom officers and others were witnesses at the trial yesterday of Caesar Angioletto and Antonio Sprongario, two of the half dozen or more men indicted as a consequence of the disturbances at the Commonwealth pier, when 1200 Italian reservists sailed for Italy on Sunday, August 15.

Judge Dubuque and a newly impaneled jury heard the case in the superior criminal court. Before the proceedings began Judge Dubuque warned the jury not to permit their prejudices regarding the war in Europe to interfere in their deliberations.

Angioletto is accused of assault upon Officer Murdo McDonald and Sprongario with assault upon Sergeant James Laffey and Officer John F. McInnes. The defendants are also both charged with inciting a riot.

SPECIAL MEETING
Bricklayers' Union, No. 31, Friday, Sept. 17, 1915. Matters of importance.

WARREN, R. L., Sept. 16.—A continuance of two weeks was ordered in the district court here today when the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany Blair Mohr, accused of inciting the murder of her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr, of Providence and Newport, and George W. Henrich, the negroes charged with the actual commission of the crime, was called for a hearing today. The continuance was granted on the representation of Asst. Atty. Gen. A. A. Capato that the most important material witness for the government, Miss Emily G. Burger, Dr. Mohr's secretary, was unable to be present.

Miss Burger, who was wounded on the night of Aug. 31 at the time Dr. Mohr was killed, is recovering from her injuries at a hospital in Providence.

Arthur Cushing, attorney for Mrs. Mohr and William H. Lewis of Cambridge, Mass., former assistant United States attorney general who represented the negroes, support a guarantee that the defendants' rights would not be presented to the grand jury before the continued hearing could be held. Mr. Capato, however, refused to define the government's position.

Today's proceedings lasted less than 10 minutes. When Judge F. H. Hamill announced the continuance until Sept. 30, the defendants and their attorneys left court immediately. Mrs. Mohr who is at liberty on bail for $10,000, returned to Providence by automobile with her attorney. The negroes were taken to the Providence county jail at Cranston in an automobile in custody of Sheriff Philo D. Cady.

JAMES J. HILL
© PACH BROS.

Discussing the proposed loan of $1,000,000,000 to the allies, James J. Hill, railroad builder and one of the financial geniuses of the country, said: "Any loan that is arranged must be a national loan. It must appeal to bankers all over the country. If a loan should be limited to war munitions and supplies the country banks in the west would take little or no interest in it, and it would undoubtedly prove to be very unpopular in the western section of the country. If, on the other hand, the loan, in addition to covering credits for war munitions and supplies, shall cover the country's exportable foodstuffs and provisions, there is every indication that the western banks, even in the smallest towns, will give it their heartiest support."

Several persons had a narrow escape from injury last evening when an automobile owned and operated by Dr. George Demopoulos and containing 3 other men crashed into a telephone pole near the corner of Mt. Vernon and Pawtucket streets. One of the occupants sustained a slight scalp wound, the others escaped unhurt. Two women standing near the pole had a narrow escape from being struck by the machine. MINIMUM WAGE

in the Retail Stores
Scheduled

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—A decree enumerating minimum wages for female employees of ordinary ability in retail stores, which practically adopts the recommendations of the retail store wage board made Aug. 3, was issued yesterday by the minimum wage commission. The new wage scale will go into effect Jan. 1, 1916. That decree is as follows:

"No. 1. No experienced female employee of ordinary ability shall be employed in retail stores in Massachusetts at a rate of wages less than $3.50 a week.

"2. No female employee of ordinary ability shall be deemed inexperienced who has been employed in a retail store or stores for one year or more, after reaching the age of 18 years.

"3. A female employee shall be deemed to have been employed in the industry for a year if her absences from her place or places of employment during 12 months, whether consecutive or non-consecutive, have not been of unreasonable duration.

"4. The wages of learners and apprentices may be less than the minimum prescribed for experienced employees, provided: That no female employee of ordinary ability who has reached the age of 18 years shall be employed at a rate of wages less than $7 a week; that no female employee of ordinary ability who has reached the age of 17 years shall be employed at a rate of wages less than $6 a week; that no other female employee of ordinary ability shall be paid at a rate of wages less than $5 a week.

"5. A female employee of less than ordinary ability may be paid less than the prescribed minimum wage provided that the conditions of section 2, chapter 750, acts of 1912, are complied with.

"6. These recommendations shall take effect Jan. 1, 1916, on which date all female employees of ordinary ability who have been employed in the industry for one year or more after reaching the age of 18 shall be deemed to have served an apprenticeship of one year, and all others shall be deemed to have begun their apprenticeship and to be entitled to the rates as specified above.

"In order to facilitate the enforcement of this order the commission recommends that a female employee on leaving her employment in any establishment receive a card showing the time she has worked in that establishment."

The decree is signed by all the commissioners, Robert E. Bissell, chairman; Mabel Gillespie and Arthur N. Holcombe.

Chapter 750, acts of 1912, which created the minimum wage commission provides that there is no appeal from the decree issued, except that any employer, upon filing a declaration under oath in the supreme judicial court or superior court that compliance with such decree would endanger the prosperity of his business, shall be entitled to a stay of execution and a review of the question involved in the declaration. If the court finds that the employer's business in question is endangered, the court may revoke the decree.

The commission is also empowered to note and to publish the names of all employers disobeying the decree, in at least four newspapers in each county in the state, with a statement of the minimum wages paid by such employers.

SHERMAN ACT MAY APPLY

Ex-Att'y Gen. Bonaparte, During Visit in Boston, Discusses Alleged Plot Against Munition Factories

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—"If it can be proved that an attempt was made to keep a group of workmen from their employment in a factory, that might come under the scope of the Sherman Anti-trust law as a conspiracy in restraint of trade, but it would make no difference whether the place of employment was a factory for the manufacture of war materials or a factory making articles that have nothing to do with the war."

This was the opinion expressed yesterday by Ex-Att'y Gen. Charles J. Bonaparte, who stopped at the Hotel Vendome on his way back from St. Andrews, N. B. He intimated that it would be difficult to secure adequate evidence in the matter of interference with workmen at war munitions plants.

"He was sure that no ambassador from a foreign country has a right even to instruct aliens of his own race here, except through the United States government. 'His fellow-countrymen,' said Mr. Bonaparte, 'have, of course, the right to ask individually his advice on any subject, but for an ambassador to undertake to instruct aliens who are permanent residents of this country, even though they are not citizens, is meddling.'"

FOSS IS READY TO QUIT

OFFERS TO WITHDRAW IF EITHER
RIVAL ACCEPTS THE PROHIBITION PLATFORM

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Ex-Gov. Foss, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, in an open letter to his opponents, ex-Congressman McCall and Lieut. Gov. Cushing, yesterday offered to withdraw from the contest provided they will declare for national prohibition.

In this letter Mr. Foss explains that he sets the defeat of the liquor interests above everything else, including his own personal success. He declares that in spite of the fact that he has good reason to believe he will be nominated, he proposes to bring about an agreement with his opponents to the end that the liquor interests may surely be defeated.

"We have no right," the letter declares, "to conduct our respective personal campaigns so that the common objects on which alone our title to public consideration rests shall be defeated. Unless the republican party adopts the issue of national prohibition its chance to return to power will be lost."

INDIANA TO CELEBRATE NATAL DAY OF JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

FRONT OF HIS HOME

Oct. 7 of this year will be a red letter day in the city of Indianapolis and the state of Indiana. It is the 66th anniversary of the birth of James Whitcomb Riley, the poet, and there will be great doings. Here's what the New York Times says editorially about the coming momentous day: "What will they say now—those critics of the American people who have, some of them, lamented and others rather exulted over our inappreciation of the literary man as a national asset and object of respect? The importance ascribed to Annals and his work by the Italians of all ranks has been repeatedly instanced of late as indicative of their possession of an aesthetic intelligence and sensitiveness utterly or almost lacking among comparative barbarians like ourselves, and the notion that we, too, could take a mere poet otherwise than as an amiable trifler would doubtless have been treated with disdainful laughter if ever it had entered the minds of these critics— which, of course, it didn't. Yet Samuel M. Ralston, who, as he has been raised to the high office of governor by a not inconsiderable group of American citizens, represents, it can fairly be assumed, the ideas and judgment of that group has just set his hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the state of Indiana at the capital, in the city of Indianapolis, to a long and solemn document which proclaims. That Oct. 7, this year, being the 66th anniversary of James Whitcomb Riley's birth, shall be Riley day. And, urgeth. That all the people of the state arrange in their respective communities, in their own way, appropriate public exercises in their schools and at their other public meeting places, and that they display the American flag in their homes and places of business on that day in honor of James Whitcomb Riley, Indiana's most beloved citizen. There's appreciation for you, and of a poet, too! When has or will Italy or any other country in Europe do a thing like that? To be sure, Indiana is not the United States, but it is quite as distinctively American as any single one of our states could be, and it, or rather as of all its citizens Indiana loves best a maker of verses, one doesn't have to be a resident of that particular literary belt to feel authorized to scorn the scorners mentioned above. Precisely what are "appropriate public exercises" for the state-wide celebration of a living poet's birthday? Gov. Ralston, in caution or inadvertence, refrains from telling. He trusts his people to find right things to do, if they do not know them already, and there need be no fear that his confidence will be betrayed.

AS HOT AS YESTERDAY ASSAULT CASE DUMMER STREET AGAIN

Hot Wave Continues Today—Cooler Tomorrow—One Killed and Two Tried Suicide

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The hot wave continued to hold eastern New England in its grip today. The temperature in this city at noon was 91, the same as yesterday but as the amount of moisture in the atmosphere was slightly higher, the heat seemed more severe.

School sessions were suspended throughout the day in many cities and towns and in others the pupils were dismissed at noon, in some cases for the rest of the week.

More reasonable conditions were predicted for tomorrow.

96 AT NEW BEDFORD
NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 16.—Temperatures of 90 to 96 in school rooms today led to the closing of the high school and many other school buildings.

107 AT HAVERHILL
HAVERHILL, Sept. 16.—Schools were closed again today on account of the heat. Numerous minor prostrations were reported. Down town thermometers registered 107 degrees.

BROCKTON SCHOOLS CLOSED
BROCKTON, Sept. 16.—Because of the high temperature all the public schools in the city were closed at noon today by order of the superintendent of schools.

AT WOODSOKET, R. I.
WOODSOKET, R. I., Sept. 16.—By order of Supt. W. A. Mowry all public and some of the parochial schools in Woodsoket were closed today for all day on account of heat.

EMPLOYEES GET AFTERNOON OFF
PAWTUCKET, R. I., Sept. 16.—With the thermometer at 91 and the humidity intense, 2000 employees of J. & P. Coats, thread manufacturers and 800 of Howard & Bullough, machinists, were given an afternoon off. Many of the school rooms of this city and of Central Falls were also closed.

ONE KILLED, 19 PROSTRATED
BOSTON, Sept. 16.—One more day of almost unexampled September heat wrought in Boston yesterday distress and discomfort such as few mid-summer days bring. In Boston itself one death and 19 prostrations were caused by the heat, and two persons were led to attempt suicide to find relief. From Dedham and other prostrations were reported, and there were many reported from elsewhere.

Deaths From Heat
Mrs. Jennie Carr, aged 58, 1 Dana court, Roxbury. Collapsed at home while washing supper dishes last evening. Soon became unconscious and later was pronounced dead by a doctor who had been called.

Edgar V. Hazard of Whitman, 63, dropped dead at the door of his foundry, where he had gone to get a breath of air.

Attempted Suicides From Heat
Mrs. Mary Lucas, 29 years old, was found yesterday afternoon at her home, 117 Harrison avenue, seriously ill. She was taken to the City hospital, where it was found she had swallowed a quantity of disinfecting fluid.

William Kerr, 30 years old, a lodger at 23 Union Park street, was found lying on his bed with his throat and both wrists cut. He was taken to the City hospital, where his condition is regarded as dangerous.

Tuesday's heat had closed some schools, but yesterday the closing was general in Boston itself and the surrounding territory, an event so unusual as to indicate better than anything else the phenomenal nature of the weather.

The weather bureau records give the maximum temperature yesterday as 94 at 2 and 3 p. m., and show that the mercury remained above 90 from shortly before noon until 5 p. m. As last Tuesday had taken the summer's heat record away from the previous Friday, so yesterday's 94 went two points above Tuesday, and for the third time in this September hot spell established a maximum temperature for 1915.

Cooler Weather Coming
Happily this third promises to be the last. Although last night the mercury dropped very slowly, making it one of the worst nights in the summer for sleeping, there is promise of a change for the better today. Somewhat lower temperatures and a west instead of a southwest wind are the forecasted accompaniments of today's fair skies and a survey of the weather map last night showed that, as one went west, one found steadily cooler weather.

In several respects yesterday was a remarkable day. In the first place, the maximum of 94 broke all records for the day, for Sept. 15 had since 1872 been an off day for heat, with 93 as its high mark in 1877 and 1893, and only three other 90's in 43 years.

A year ago had a normal range of 74 to 93 and in 1913 it was an unusually cold day, ranging from 59 to 81.

But 94 for the middle of September.

Hot Session in Police Court Today—Defendant Fined

A long drawn out assault and battery case in which a woman claimed she was badly beaten while attempting to take her husband home from a house where he was being harbored by another family, occupied the attention of Judge Enright and a number of spectators at this forenoon's session of police court. Felixa Maclelewicz, a bride of only a few months, was the defendant and Mrs. Karlaizyna Pucielvis was the victim of the alleged assault. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant and John J. McClure for the newlywed.

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 7, when her husband did not return home from supper Mrs. Pucielvis, suspecting that he was at a neighbor's house, went in search of him and politely knocked at the door, requesting that her husband be sent out. Instead of receiving her husband, as expected the complainant, she was the recipient of blows from a broom stick, followed by more blows in which the broom was used. She showed the court a badly bruised left arm, which necessitated medical treatment. Dr. Livingston being the physician.

Lawyer McClure for the defense attempted to show that the woman went to the house looking for trouble but the witness claimed that though her husband was not as faithful as he might be, he could by no means be called "trouble."

The defendant denied the striking and said Mrs. Pucielvis went to her home all worked up over the absence of her husband. Felixa alleged that she in no way induced the man to go to her home and he, the complainant's husband, even went so far as to finance the party, paying for all the refreshments.

Judge Enright decided that the defendant took the law in her own hands by committing the assault and imposed a fine of $15. She paid.

When the name of Daniel Cryan, accused of fraudulent concealment of property, was called there was no response and Cryan was defaulted.

An Array of Drunks
Another good array of drunken offenders occupied the attention of the court today, 10 being present after the daily elimination of first offenders. One of the defendants was a woman, totally blind, who was arrested yesterday afternoon in company with a man. She pleaded with the court for a chance to get out, claiming that she and her five children with whom she could live. Her case was continued until Saturday for investigation. Two of the others were sent to the state farm; three to jail and the rest given opportunities to pay fines.

JUMPED ON AN AUTO
Arthur Savard, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Savard of Moody st., received a bad gash in the forehead late yesterday afternoon while playing in front of his home.

Shortly before 5 o'clock the boy hung on to the rear of an automobile driven by Joseph Cartier. The chauffeur increased the speed with the result that the boy was thrown forcibly from the ground, striking his head on the hard pavement.

The little fellow was carried into the Red Cross pharmacy, where he was given first aid treatment by W. P. Caisse, Jr. The boy was found to be suffering from a deep gash in the forehead, but his condition is not serious.

THEY BROKE INTO CAMPS
TWO YOUTHS HELD AT NASHUA FOR ENTERING CAMPS ALONG MERRIMACK

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 16.—John Foster of Troy, N. Y., and Thomas Cronin of Utica, N. Y., both 17 years old, pleaded guilty of breaking and entering several summer camps along the Merrimack river, in police court today and were held for superior court hearing.

MATRIMONIAL

John E. Welch and Miss Della Burke were married late yesterday afternoon. The ceremony being performed at 5 o'clock at St. Columba's rectory by the pastor, Rev. John A. Regan. The bride was Miss Mary Egan. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Egan. The best man was James Cuff. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Martin O'Donnell, 37 George street. Mr. and Mrs. Welch, who were the recipients of numerous costly gifts, left on an extended honeymoon trip during which time they will visit relatives and friends in Boston and New York. They will return to this city on Oct. 1.

NO WORD OF DUMBA
VIENNA, Sept. 14, by courier to Berlin, via London, Sept. 15, 10.55 p. m.—Even now no admission can be obtained in any government quarters that anything more is known about the United States government's request for the recall of Dr. Constantin Theodor Dumba, the Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Washington, than is printed in the Swiss, French and German newspapers reaching here.

It appears to be a fact that no report of any nature has yet been received from the ambassador himself nor has Frederick C. Penfield, the American ambassador, received Secretary of State Lansing's request for the withdrawal of Dr. Dumba.

CHELSEA MAN ENDS LIFE
BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Just released from the City hospital where physicians had successfully frustrated his efforts to poison himself and strangled him back from the very jaws of death, William Bradworthy, 21, of a Chelsea place, Chelsea, committed suicide yesterday by throwing himself into the harbor waters from the Marine ferry wharf on Marginal street, East Boston.

MOTORCYCLE HITS AUTO

CHAUFFEUR SERIOUSLY INJURED—OTHERS HURT IN COLLISION

NEWBURYPORT, Sept. 16.—A motorcycle and an automobile came together with terrific force on the Causeway between this city and Salisbury yesterday afternoon, both machines being badly smashed.

The auto was occupied by Franklin Parquette of Pleasant street, Merrimack, and a woman companion, and was going toward Salisbury. The motorcycle carried George Bassett of 74 Waverley street, Everett, and A. M. Martin of 45 Thurman street, same city, and was coming toward this city. The motorcycleists say the auto was on the wrong side of the road and they were so far on their side that they could not swing around when they found the auto was not going to give them room.

The impact was so forcible that the car was thrown 75 feet and turned upside down, and the occupants were thrown out. The men on the motorcycle were thrown a considerable distance.

Parquette, who was driving the auto, was the most severely injured, being unconscious when picked up. He was brought to a hospital here in an ambulance and was found to have a badly cut leg, and cuts on his back and shoulder. The woman, who was not much injured, was picked up by a passing automobile, refusing to go to a hospital or to give her name.

Bassett and Martin escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

GREAT MASS MEETING

STRIKERS AT ASSOCIATE HALL
ADOPTED FORMAL DEMANDS TO
BE SUBMITTED TO CARTRIDGE CO.

Two large halls in the Runcles building were insufficient to accommodate the force of strikers that turned out for the strike meeting this morning and the strike committee and organizers were obliged to hire Associate hall. There were about 1300 in attendance. General Organizer Frank H. McCarthy of the American Federation of Labor opened the meeting and informed the gathering that until their charter arrives from the American Federation of Labor, he will be in charge of all strike affairs. He congratulated the strikers on their excellent conduct and said that if they continued their peaceful methods of conducting the strike they would surely win out. He also read a communication drawn up by the strike committee in which the demands of the strikers were set forth. The communication was put before the gathering for rejection or acceptance and it was unanimously adopted. It was then forwarded by special messenger to Capt. Thomas B. Doe, general manager of the U. S. Cartridge Co.

Organizer Whelan
Daniel E. Whelan, organizer for the Boot and Shoe Workers, was next introduced and he was warmly received. Mr. Whelan also congratulated the strikers on their sensible conduct and said that they had the sentiment and backing of the people of the city as a result of the manner in which they have conducted themselves since the strike began. He said the statement reported to have been made by Capt. Doe that the business of the company would move out of Lowell if the strikers did not return to work speedily was plain "humbug." "As a practical business man, which I assume Captain Doe to be," continued Mr. Whelan, "he will see to it in the right light within a short time and come to terms." In conclusion the organizer urged the strikers to continue their organization when once started, saying that if they didn't they would be back in the same rut before the end of three months.Organizer Hall was introduced by Organizer McCarthy as a man who is willing at all times to pitch in and help organized labor, attacked the board of trade, saying that this organization will never have the chance again to say that Lowell is a good city to live in because wages are low and there are never any strike troubles.
Organizer Ross Hall of Lynn who

Organizer Rye

Organizer Rye of Baltimore, Md., urged the strikers to hang together, lest they hang separately. He told of conditions in Maryland where the machinists have obtained an eight-hour day and increased wages, and said the same thing is possible in this city.

Organizer Henderson

Organizer Henderson of the International Machinists' union, who has been in charge of the strike in Bridgeport, Conn., was next called upon and it was some time before he was able to speak, such was the applause of the large crowd. Mr. Henderson proved to be an eloquent and forceful talker and he made a decided hit with the gathering. He related incidents of several strikes in which he has participated and stated that a number of them were won by the efforts of women. He characterized the women as "peace angels" and said the men should stick to the heels of the women for law and order. He also gave the women strikers much credit for the order that has prevailed in the present strike and urged them to do everything possible to maintain peace among their brothers and sisters. He was given an ovation at the conclusion of his remarks.

New Headquarters

Following the meeting Organizer McCarthy announced that meetings will be held in Associate hall every morning until further notice at 10 o'clock and the headquarters of the strike committee hereafter will be in Trades and Labor hall, Middle street, where officials will be on hand to issue every information regarding the strike.

Organizer McCarthy's Statement

In conversation with a Sun representative this morning, Organizer McCarthy said that the strikers are confident of eight hours and a wage increase being granted by the company officials within a short time. He said there are 3500 names enrolled on the membership list at the present time and that more are coming in all the time. "Our demands are justified, and the closing down of the plants is sufficient testimony of this," he said. "We want law and order, and we are doing our utmost to further this end. I don't say the U. S. Cartridge Co. is like other concerns which hire professional strike breakers to raise trouble, but we are on the lookout for such an emergency all the time. We positively will not countenance trouble of any kind."

When asked when he thought he would receive an answer to the communication sent to Capt. Doe this morning, he smiled, and said he expected the plant manager would take his time and consider every detail before making reply.

MACHINISTS' MEETING

The machinists employed by the company held a meeting last night in Leather Workers' hall at which demands for an eight hour day with time and one-half for overtime and an increase in wages of 25 per cent was drawn up by the committees representing both the day and night shifts. These demands will be presented to the company at the earliest possible moment. The demands affect over 500 machinists and tool makers, the majority of whom are employed at the big plant in Lawrence street. At present ent they work nine hours a day with time and a quarter for overtime.

Last night's session was presided over by Organizer Ross Hall of the International Machinists' union and a number of prominent local and out-of-town labor men addressed the gathering. The committee conferred in a small ante-room leading off the main hall and their report embodying the above demands was acted upon favorably.

A number of those present wanted to go on record as favoring a larger increase in wages but Organizer Hall urged moderation in the demands. If the demands are granted the machinists will receive $17.50 for a week of 48 hours. The organizer's argument won over the extreme element and there was no dissension.

The majority of the machinists in attendance were day workers but the night men were represented by their authorized committees.

Organizer Daniel E. Whelan was the first speaker introduced and he received a rousing reception. Mr. Whelan urged the men to act intelligently in framing their demands and then stick to them. He said it is about time the workers of Lowell awoke from their deep slumber to demand living wages and sanitary working conditions. He considered the walk-out of the employees to be the best thing that ever happened Lowell and its people.

President Frank Warnock was enthusiastically applauded when he was introduced to the gathering. President Warnock told of the benefits of organization and what it has done for the Plasterer's union in this city, which he organized and is a member of. He said organization is the only way in which the workers may hope to obtain what is rightfully theirs and he urged all to join the union and stick by it. Several other labor men spoke after Mr. Warnock.

MR. WOOD'S STATEMENT

BOARD OF ARBITRATION WILL NOT INTERFERE IF PARTIES CAN AGREE OTHERWISE

Mr. Wood of the board of arbitration and conciliation said, after the meeting this morning, in reference to the strike, that the board would take no further action until such time as it becomes known that no progress is being made toward the settlement of the present difficulty. "The company," he said, "will want time to read, digest and discuss the demands of the strikers and that will require a few days. Then we will look for a conference and the board will sit tight until such time as it becomes plain that its services are required. I rather look for a speedy settlement of the present trouble."

LATE WAR NEWS

The war may be momentarily expected, according to advances through Copenhagen.

Following Rumania's persistent refusal to allow war supplies for Turkey to pass through her territory, Austro-German troops recently have been massed on the Rumanian frontier. Rumania has effected the mobilization of large bodies of her troops.

Turco-Bulgarian Agreement

It is reported through Athens that the Turco-Bulgarian agreement will be finally ratified by imperial decree in Constantinople on Sept. 25 and that the new frontier will be traced by German officers.

Amnesty to 100,000 Prisoners

Press advices from Petrograd received in Italy state that Emperor Nicholas has granted amnesty to all political prisoners, who number more than 100,000.

Austrian Destroyers Sunk

Two Austrian torpedo boat destroyers are reported in despatches from Italy to have been sunk by an Italian submarine in the Adriatic.

Artillery Fighting

There have been additional spirited artillery exchanges along the front in France, the activity having been particularly notable in the region of Arras, around Roye and in the vicinity of Lassigny. Further down the line, also, the big guns have been active, the firing extending into the Vosges mountain region.

RUSSIANS SHOW INCREASING DISPOSITION TO ASSUME THE OFFENSIVE

LONDON, Sept. 16.—(2.40 p. m.)—Coincident with Earl Kitchener's optimistic remarks in the house of lords concerning the position of the Russian armies they are showing an increasing disposition to resume the offensive at many points on the eastern front. They are not only pressing their attacks against the Austrians in Galicia but for the most part are holding up the German rush in mid-Poland.

Germans Hurled Back

The Russians also assert that they have thrown back the invaders near Sviensynay, where the German cavalry cut the Petrograd railroad between Dvinsk and Vilna. The Germans' battery still holds out at the bridgehead near Dvinsk although the Russians apparently are holding their opponents in check in this region.

Believe Kitchener's Statement

Counting their captures in Galicia, the Russians lately have been taking more prisoners than they have been losing. In England hopes are rising that Earl Kitchener did not make an incautious prediction when he declared

Germany had shot her bolt but that his statement was based on facts. It is said here that von Hindenburg's drive is losing its vigor while von Mackensen is striving to overcome the difficulties of the marsh country and the Austrians appear to be unable to regain the upper hand in Galicia.

Balkan Situation

The Balkan situation has not reached a settlement. The British press views Bulgaria's attitude with some anxiety. "Bulgaria's aim," says the Manchester Guardian, "is the subject of an increasingly anxious thought by the entente powers."

FEATURES OF LAST NIGHT'S WAR NEWS IN BRIEF

FORM

Considerable part of proposed Anglo-French billion-dollar loan has been pledged. Lloyd's announces British volunteers for army and navy total nearly 3,000,000.

Commons votes $1,250,000,000 war credit. Kitchener declares the Germans have reached top of their effort, and Russia, unconquered, is turning the tide.

British conscription hinted at by premier and war secretary and debated in commons. Austro-Germans driven back to the Dniester river at Bessarabian frontier. Russian bridge head west of Dvinsk attacked by Germans.

Russians attack von Hindenburg between Vilna and Dvinsk and large cavalry forces assault Teutons in central marsh regions.

Germans announce further gains in direction of Pinsk. French report heavy artillery duels and grenade combats, especially at Saligny, where Germans attack bridge head.

British fight 21 battles in air and drive 12 German machines to earth.

bankers, should be sold at par or at not more than a shade under.

Some financiers here are said to doubt if the American public would subscribe to a straight 5 per cent loan without collateral at more than 95 if that.

The way of the commission in agreeing to a higher rate of interest than 5 per cent would be beset with obstacles, in the opinion of some bankers here. "These bankers point out that Great Britain's internal loans have borne interest rates of 4½ and 5 per cent subject to deduction for the income tax which in the case of the largest incomes is as much as 27 per cent."

Bearing in mind the prime necessity that the securities to be offered here for the billion dollar loan must be absolutely free from all British income tax requirements, these bankers point out that the terms which Great Britain and France propose to offer to American investors are infinitely better than the terms offered by these governments to investors at home.

A possibility widely discussed today was that payment for munitions of war should be excluded from the operation of the proposed credit loan; that the big credit loan would be used to pay only for exports of foodstuffs and other prime necessities, and that payment for war munitions would be in gold. The report was not commented on, one way or the other, by the commission or others supposed to be in close touch with its program.

Members of the commission seemed to be well satisfied today with the progress made thus far. Millions in pledges, it was reported, had already been secured and more pledges were tentatively assured. Negotiations, it was said, had reached the stage where an authoritative statement from the commission would soon be issued.

It developed today that not only had the so-called pro-German group of New York financiers failed to receive invitation to participate in the negotiations although the hint had been dropped that they would welcome it, but the members of the group had become convinced that such invitation would be forthcoming.

From these sources today came the expression of an opinion that a billion dollar loan was unnecessary and that a credit of from $300,000,000 to $400,000,000 would be ample to meet the situation. Payment for munitions of war, it was thought, should be included from the proceeds of this loan, the credit covering only foodstuffs, cotton, manufactured goods and other necessities. Under no circumstances, it was said, would members of this group participate in a loan which would cover payment of war munitions, even if they were invited.

Anglo-French Plan Now Seems Well on Way to Success—Will Try to Sell Bonds at Par

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—America's $1,000,000,000 loan to Great Britain and France seemed to be well on the way to actual accomplishment last night, according to bankers familiar with the pledges secured by members of the Anglo-French financial commission during their five days' stay in this country.

Announcement at this time that the success of the loan was assured would be, these bankers thought, decidedly premature; but there was every indication, in their opinion, that the commission's work thus far had met with a degree of success that had fully equalled their expectations.

This rosy view reflected the thoughts of the men who have championed the commission's cause here and aided them by hard work. It did not coin-

PASSED FORGED CHECKS

MAN HELD AT MANCHESTER ON

CHARGE—MAY HAVE OPERATED

HERE

MANCHESTER, N. H., Sept. 16.—John McCarthy, alias John Sullivan of Augusta, Me., was held for the superior court today, on the charge of passing forged checks. The police claim he is wanted in Dover, Haverhill, Mass., and other New England cities on the same charge.

An attempt was made to learn from bankers in touch with the commission and its work, the situation last night was about as follows:

Pledges have already been secured for a considerable fraction of the big loan.

The so-called pro-German banking houses of New York will be invited to participate in the loan if the commission can be persuaded that they are sincere in their expressions of willingness to do so.

An attempt will be made to sell the bonds at par, in case the interest rate should be 5 per cent. Members of the commission fully believe that such bonds could be disposed of at par, but American bankers have their doubts on this score.

ALLIES' LOAN LEGAL

Lansing Says Plan Does Not Violate International Law as Money Will Be Spent Here

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Sec. Lansing made it plain to inquirers yesterday that no violations of domestic or international law were involved in the proposed flotation by the allies of a large loan in this country.

The secretary explained that the attitude of the Washington government had long been announced; that its expression of disapproval of loans as "inconsistent with the spirit of neutrality" had been occasioned by a direct request for advice by American bankers concerning loans in general, and that the administration voiced its opposition chiefly to loans by popular subscription or those which would take large sums of gold from the United States.

So far as state department officials are able to observe, however, the new loan is essentially what is known as a "credit loan" to pay for obligations incurred or about to be incurred for the purchase of supplies. Such a loan is viewed as a private commercial transaction, not differing from the traffic in contraband or other war supplies, over which a neutral government is not obligated to exercise any control.

Only in the event that the matter is directly brought to the attention of the Washington government for advice is there likely to be any formal expression of opinion in the present instance.

THE NEXT CONGRESS

The last session of congress was remarkable for the great number of important measures put through by the democratic administration. Under the personal leadership of President Wilson almost all of the larger reforms promised in the democratic platform were considered, and relatively unimportant things were left over to the next session. Since then the world has moved wonderfully and questions just as pressing and just as important will call for speedy action when congress again convenes. Most of the problems to be considered have been brought about by the world war.

It now looks as though the big question calling for attention will be the matter of national preparedness, and changes in the army and navy will be advocated. This is not a partisan question, and the administration will have a practical program which may and may not be accepted. There is no indication of a party break along these lines.

The restoration of our merchant marine is in some ways of even greater importance and this too is likely to be taken up. There is no unanimity of opinion as to the best method of attending to this national need, and while the administration will work might and main for government control and ownership, some of the great shipping interests will demand a subsidy and repeal of some existing laws. However it may be done, it is to be most sincerely hoped that the end of the session will mark the beginning of a restored merchant marine.

Unquestionably some efforts will be made to get trade concessions from England, and some pro-Germans will try to secure an embargo on arms and ammunition. If the same activity is shown in congress as out of it, there may be some unsavory revelations through the session. The Mexican question will also call for attention, also the inequalities of the tariff law; the establishing of an American eye industry; the introduction of a federal budget system of finance, and the giving of aid to the farmer to tide him over the war period. In history, the next session may be even more noted than the famous last session.

KEEP OFF TRACKS

A book of statistics just published by the bureau of railroad news, Chicago, states that during 1914 the number of persons killed on the railroads of the United States and Canada was 11,500, and that the number of injured was 205,000. More than 50 per cent of this number it says were trespassers on the lines. Sixteen people are killed on the railroad tracks of the United States and Canada for every day in the year, and this in spite of the fact that everywhere there are laws prohibiting such trespassing. Moreover the railroad expert who compiled the figures says that the great majority of those so killed are not tramps or hoboes but "useful citizens with fixed homes, laboring men walking along tracks or riding cars to and from their work, business men and, in fact, the public generally using railroad tracks as a convenient pathway, persons picking up coal in yards and children 'shipping' cars." He goes on to add: "The real sufferers are the dependent families of the victims; but the public also suffers, first, in being deprived of the services of those killed and maimed, and secondly in the increased burden of caring for those who are thereby made destitute and helpless."

This city is a real offender in this respect in spite of occasional campaigns of safety and prosecutions by the railroad acting in co-operation with the city authorities. In certain places the railroad tracks are availed of every day as a short cut to work, and hundreds use dangerous track sections in coming and going as though there was no element of danger or as though warning notices did not swing overhead. The railroads and the police authorities seem unable to handle the situation and they depend a great deal on a changed public sentiment. When the great mass of tragedies in this and every other city do not serve as a warning it is doubtful if frequent prosecutions would be any more effective.

Somebody has recently said that every age has its catchword, and that the catchword of this age is "efficiency." Certain it is that the term has been used to explain many new movements and tendencies, and just as every improvement is attributed to efficiency, so every lack of success or system is blamed to inefficiency. In many ways we are in danger of getting away from the ideals of true efficiency and of using it as a blind for serious abuses.

A committee which studied the Taylor system of business efficiency recently reported adversely on it to congress. Following is from the report: "The Taylor system regards the workman as a machine to be speeded up to its maximum capacity. When this human machine fails to function to the satisfaction of the management it is to be cast aside to make room for the new machine—the fresh workman." This is the species of efficiency which may produce temporary dividends for the business involved, but it is a poor policy eventually whether in an economic or in a national sense.

The principle of the question is contained in another excerpt from this same report. "By the stop-watch it says 'you may be able to determine the time in which a piece of work may be done, but you do not thereby determine the length of time in which it ought to be done.' The purely mechanical machine may be speeded to the limit, but the human machine must be treated as something different from a piece of machinery if the best results are to be obtained.

When efficiency is carried to extremes, employees are regarded merely as mechanical parts of a whole, and there is no attempt to foster a cordial relationship between employer and employee. Far better that the human side of the worker be kept in mind and that while eliminating waste and inefficiency all employers remember that those who work for them are men and women and not automata without feelings or human weaknesses. The efficiency that proves injurious to the worker will some day prove injurious to the employer.

FIRES ON SHIPS

An agent of the Fabre line speaking of the fire on the Sant' Anna in mid-ocean a few days ago said that since the war started this line has had considerable trouble with fires that break out either at the docks or during the voyage. He plainly intimated that such fires were set by rabid pro-Germans who in this way wanted to injure the trade of the allies with this country. For the most part the fires have broken out on freight vessels, but in the case of the Sant' Anna and others they have endangered the lives of thousands of passengers, many of whom were neutrals, and almost all of whom were non-combatants.

So numerous have been the cases of mysterious fires on board the freight and passenger steamers of all lines that it is difficult to doubt that they are due to a deliberate design. One New York paper charges that at least 14 such fires have been set by German emissaries or agents. It will be recalled that the crazed Blumenthal placed bombs on vessels as a part of his propaganda, and it may be that the many fires set since then have been due to the work of individual fanatics. The government should take very aggressive measures to stop such dastardly and pernicious practices, and if there is any organization behind the outrages it should be exposed and its instigators punished to the full extent of the law. If isolated cranks and fanatics are guilty it will be more difficult to apprehend them, but it ought not to prove impossible.

OUR LOST SUMMER

Our lost summer has been found, but, unlike those in the parable who found something they had lost, we are not rejoicing. Just as we thought we were sailing into a mild and grateful fall, behold! old Father Time turned over a few leaves of his book and showed us our lost summer in the lap of Autumn. Those who had planned for September vacations are glad but the rest of us poor mortals have sweltered sadly and recalled the wonderful rainy days of July and August. Is it due to imagination merely or is heat in September more depressing than in July? It surely seems as though people could not be more prostrate in mid-summer than they were for the past few days. There is solace in the thought that the coolness of fall cannot be long delayed, for the months will claim recognition for the season that approaches. It is hard to imagine that summer is really gone; the trees have not as yet shown the hues of decay, and the thermometer is higher than for many years at this season. Better that we should be grateful for the measure of sunshine given so liberally at the eleventh hour and anticipate the greater fruitfulness of the fall.

LOAN FOR ALLIES

It is some surprise for American bankers to find that the allied nations show little disposition to beg or bargain in making requisition for a great American loan. France, England, Russia and Italy may have some difficulties in matters of financial exchange but they are by no means short of monetary resources. They can still pay for their supplies in English gold, but they would rather arrange for a great credit system on the lines laid down by American bankers and on their own terms. American financiers will have to compromise if they would hold the trade of the allies, for the shrewd old world is not to be tricked into being bled for the gain of the new. The pro-German opposition to the loan for the allies does not look serious, for where financial gain is concerned, business and politics do not mix very well. It may be that among the names of the bankers who will advance the loan will be found some of a Teutonic cast.

SEEN AND HEARD

If experience is the great stuff they claim it is, why is it that most widowers marry again.

O. Yes; a Pleasant Vacation

A quintet of local young women have returned home after an eventful two weeks' camping party. Their in-day stay at the lake was one continuous round of excitement, and every day some member of the party furnished a thrill that the movie man would give thousands of dollars to duplicate. Mosquitoes and poor cooking caused the greatest amount of trouble and threatened to break up the party on several occasions.

Two of the fair ones had narrow escapes from drowning, one jumping into the water fully clothed from a motor boat that had caught fire from a backfire from the engine, and the other venturing out over her head while bathing at "The Point."

In both instances, however, members of the local police force were "Johnny on the spot" and saving both by sensational rescues. To cap the climax, the cook had her hand burned quite severely by the explosion of a gasoline stove.—Holyoke Transcript.

Was Not Where He Belonged

Talk about getting into "the right church, by the wrong pew," a young man who went calling on his girl one night last week made a worse mix-up than that. On the street where his lady was visiting there are two houses whose families are acquainted with each other. At any rate, everything about the house was identical the same. The piazza was screened the same way, the hammock had the same position and architecturally the buildings cannot be told apart.

This was not the girl's own house. She was merely visiting it. It will not pay to forget that, otherwise one might think the young man had been imbibing of the water that cheers.

He had been to his house only once or twice before and had forgotten that the house where his friend was stopping was the last one on the street. So he went as usual up the steps, rang the bell, went in the parlor when a man, whom he thought was the girl's uncle, opened the door. He sat down and the man very generously lighted the gas for him. Then he thought there must be visitors at the house. So he conversed amiably for about five minutes before he found he was in the wrong house. It spoiled his evening and he lost five valuable minutes with his friend.—Salem News.

Scotch and Irish Wit

Capt. George E. Worthen, superintendent of state aid, will attend the C. A. R. national encampment in Washington during the week of September, when veterans from all over the country will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the "War the war against the war." The review took place after the Civil war and the captain remembers that the boys of the army of the Potomac wore paper collars in order to make a good showing in the review. As they passed by, Sherman's men reviewing them from the sidewalks, leaped a bit and referred to them as the "paper collar boys." The next day Sherman's men marched while the army of the Potomac looked on and a band in the Sherman ranks played "Marching Through Georgia," which caused a son of Erin, who was in the army of the Potomac, to say: "Who couldn't march through Georgia when there was nobody home?" meaning that the army of the Potomac had the rebels engaged while Sherman's men marched through Georgia. To this little story Capt. Worthen added another in which a Scotchman delivered a few words that made him famous. Some soldiers passing by had loaves of bread on their bayonet points, an easy way to carry the bread, and as they passed him, the Scot said: "There goes the staff of life on the point of death."

AMUSEMENT NOTES

OPERA HOUSE

Despite the warm weather, there are packed houses at every performance at the Opera House this week, with the Emerson Players offering that great mystery melodramatic farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate." Never before has such interest been shown in any theatrical venture offered in Lowell, and that the Emerson Players have established themselves as prime favorites with the theatregoers of this city and the surrounding towns is shown in the receipts offered the various members. "Seven Keys to Baldpate" is an unusual play—really a play within a play—and it has taken Lowell by storm.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" tells a wonderful story about William Halliwell Magee, a writer of the dime novel melodrama, who, to win a wager of $5000, goes to Baldpate Inn to write a novel within 24 hours. How he succeeds is wonderfully told in a series of farce melodramatic situations, the play being enacted between the prologue and the epilogue. The play is a masterpiece of wit and farce, and the actors wait for the grand finale, the epilogue, to see the wonderful effect. The play is really one of the greatest contributions to the city and stage and packed houses in New York, Chicago and Boston and throughout the country at $2 is testimonial to the great success of the play.

Home Barton plays the part of Magee splendidly, offering one of the best exhibitions of acting ever seen in this city while Ann O'Leary as Mary Kenney is exceptionally good. Joe Crehan as Lou May, Walter von Boeckman as Jim Fagan, Henry Cresson as John Bland, Russell Clark as Mr. Hayden, Frank Walsh as Elijah Quinby, Clara Sidney as Mrs. Quinby, Dora Booth as Myra Thornhill, Gertrude Shirley as Mrs. Rhodes, Carson Davenport as Jiggs Kenney, Herbert Augustine and Forrest Gordon are seen in strong character actors, characters which they portray splendidly. The scenic production is of unusual beauty and compares with the original production, not the slightest detail being missing.

Order seats early for this banner attraction. It is the hit of the century and hundreds will be unable to secure tickets. Reservations are held until 1.45 and 7.15 except on Saturdays when reservations for the matinee performance will be held until 1 o'clock and for the evening performance until 6 o'clock.

Unusual interest is being shown in the announcement that "The Yellow Ticket," A. H. Woods' great success will be the next offering and already there has been a great demand for seats. The play tells a wonderful story of Jewish oppression. It tells the story of pretty Marya Varenka, who is forced to apply for the yellow ticket in order to leave the village to see her dying father. He dies and she is left alone with nothing to protect her but the badge of the social outcast, but she does not live up to its significance. She seeks redemption and is chief of the secret police and to protect herself she kills him. A young American journalist has fallen in love with her and how they succeed is told in this strong and gripping play.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

John O'Malley, the doughty Irish tenor, who is one of the brightest spots on the Keith program, this week, is Irish born and Irish bred and he preaches to sing the songs that tell of his homeland and of her people. O'Malley had a hard time of it in early life. Always gifted with a superb voice, he was so poor that it required many sacrifices on his part to enable him to get it trained. He had his eye on the stage way back in earlier times, and now he is on it, and making a positive record for himself.

Another banner feature of the week is McCormack's voice, his general singing is rather more after the type of the Chauncy Olcott of former days. And O'Malley likes to class himself with Olcott, rather than with the famous operatic artist. He is a positive treat, and his voice is a positive treat. Another banner feature of the week is "Hankiechief No. 15," which is played by Fremont & Co. It is a real comedy, with a real plot. It is filled with excellent situations, and everything considered, is probably the best laughing comedy of the season thus far. The Armat Brothers are a splendid comedy who play the while they tumble and Clayton & White are boy dancers of extraordinary ability. Ed Estus makes an excellent balancer, and other acts on the bill are the musical comedy "A Summer's Day" and the Everetts. Seats for the remaining performances of this week can be obtained in advance at the box office. Phone 28.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE: An entirely new list of best motion picture features has been arranged for the remainder of the week, starting with the matinee this afternoon. The headline on the bill for today is the sensational Blanche Sweet in the title role of the five act Paramount picture, "The Case of Becky." This is Miss Sweet's latest release and it is one of her best. Miss Sweet appears in a role of dual personalities. In this play she is a veritable feminine Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. There are many interesting incidents related in this absorbing photograph in which Miss Sweet appears at her very best. Another picture for the last three days of this week is the three act feature, "The Triples of Time." This is a picture with a gripping theme which everyone should see. The Charlie Chaplin comedy, "Tim Johnnies" is a riot of laughter. The performances for today, tomorrow and Saturday conclude with the entertaining and instructive Paramount travel pictures of seven act submarine picture which shows many interesting under-sea scenes at the Sunday concert, nor the feature, "The Rosary" in seven acts for the first half of next week.

OWL THEATRE

As the five act photo-play "Always in the Way" progresses on the screen, one is more and more enthralled by Mary Minter Miles' delicious personality. She is one of the finest young mimics in the business. As the little girl who was "always in the way" she plays a tear-compelling role with striking realism and sincerity. Five other Mutual movie films complete today's show.

ROCKINGHAM FAIR

Babyland in all its splendor will hold full sway at Rockingham fair when babies and little girls will have their inning in the baby show, decorated babies by carriage parade and school girls' white dress parade. Two days will be devoted to the babies and little girls and some hundred prizes will be awarded.

L. M. Rich, the "King of Babyland," who in his twenty years of conducting baby shows from coast to coast, has handled over 100,000 infants, will have charge of the show. Mr. Rich is the originator of the baby show and is well known in this city, where in a few days he will open headquarters to receive entries and supply information regarding the classes and prizes.

The Rockingham baby show will be open to any baby. The grand prize for the most beautiful baby will be a high grade sewing machine, and the grand prize for the most beautifully decorated coach will be a beautiful silver set in a silk lined case. A mother can enter her child in as many classes as she wants to and in the carriage parade as well.

The baby show at Rockingham is one feature that is absolutely free to the mothers and their children, even to admission to the grounds. Arrangements are now being made so as to transport baby's carriage to and from his home without cost.

NEUTRALS SHORT OF RUBBER American Manufacturers' Arrangements With England Causes Shortage of Tires in Northern Countries

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Serious shortage of automobile tires in the neutral countries of Europe, usually supplied by American manufacturers, has followed restriction of rubber exports from the United States. Reports received yesterday by the state department said business in Holland, Sweden, Norway and Denmark was suffering on account of lack of tires.

Under an agreement between the British government and American manufacturers, no rubber products are allowed to go to any European country except through Great Britain. The Americans having entered into the compact to secure supplies of raw rubber from the British East Indies. As a result neutral countries in Europe, forced to do all their buying through British dealers, have encountered increased prices and in many cases a total lack of supply.

Diplomatic representatives of the United States in Holland and Scandinavian countries have brought the matter to the attention of the state department, but the manufacturers here are not complaining, as they have no difficulty in disposing of their entire output through Great Britain, where a large part of the supply is used for war purposes.

DIAMOND DAZZLES

And to think that the New England season is closed during this weather.

Fly the poor college and high school football fellows who are trying to practice that game these days.

If the Braves don't let the pennant they'll make the winners know that they've been in a fight.

The St. Louis Americans will play in Boston one week from tomorrow and undoubtedly many Lowell fans will attend the series of three games in the hope of seeing Shorty play.

Shorty Dees' debut with the St. Louis Americans wasn't very auspicious. Shorty was to have left Lowell on Monday morning, but he didn't get away until the last train Monday night. Thus he was riding all night Monday night, not expecting to be put in the lineup the next day. But they put him in and while he scored one run he didn't hit and had two errors on four chances.

The Kimball team sitting in the office of the Kimball System with electric fans to keep them cool talked over their coming game with the Evansville team. The Evansville team has played its regular lineup against all comers with success, but when Granville went out and got five New England leaguers for his Saturday game the Westford team justified in strengthening up themselves. Last Saturday they broke away from their rule for the first time by engaging Bates, a senior pitcher with a reputation, but there are many Westford rooters who contend that he showed nothing on their own Harry Wright. Bailey will not pitch for Westford next Saturday and Mr. Hartford side-stepped my question as to the identity of Westford's star artist on that occasion.

By a toss of the coin the next and concluding game in the Westford-Granville series will be played next Saturday at Westford. The Westford people have a ball grounds that is better than some of the N. E. league grounds. It has a regular official diamond which is kept in shape by a "perpetual care fund." As a general rule no admission is charged at the Westford grounds, but on account of the unusual nature and expense of Saturday's game the fans will have to settle and they're all satisfied to do so.

Here's how they stand:

THE RED SOX ARE
2 games ahead of Detroit.
11 games ahead of Chicago.

THE BRAVES ARE
5 games behind Philadelphia.
1/2 game behind Brooklyn.
7 games ahead of St. Louis.
7 games ahead of Cincinnati.
7 1/2 games ahead of Chicago.
9 games ahead of Pittsburgh.
11 games ahead of New York.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

The Elms are without a game for Saturday and would like to hear from any strong arm or see the manager at Carr's, after seven.

HOTTEST DAY OF YEAR

SCHOOLS CLOSED ON ACCOUNT OF THE HEAT—MERCURY IN THE 90s

With an official maximum temperature of 94, the fourth day of the belated hot wave broke all records in this city, it being the hottest day of the year so far as temperature is concerned. Again today the thermometers in nearly all the school rooms registered nearly 90 and once more Supt. Molloy caused the "noschool" bell to be sounded at 12:45 o'clock, dismissing all pupils. Schools were also closed in the suburban towns, the principals being notified by the various superintendents at noon.

During the night the mercury remained above 80. It climbed steadily all forenoon and in Merrimack square thermometers registered 90. At the Locks & Canals an official thermometer was given and the police station thermometer showed a temperature of 91. On account of today being a half holiday in the stores, there was a great exodus of people after the noon hour, many going into the country in an attempt to get relief. Small stores shut down today. Other stores usually open every night in the week closed at 6:30 o'clock last night, so intense was the heat.

WOMAN KILLED BY HEAT

SCHOOL SESSIONS SUSPENDED AND WATCH FACTORY CLOSED AT WALTHAM

WALTHAM, Sept. 16.—One death and a general cessation from business and school sessions resulted from the hot wave in this city today. Mrs. Helen Todd of Thomaston, Conn., who was visiting in this city, was overcome by the heat and died. The schools closed early in the forenoon and at noon the watch factory sent home its help.

BABY CHOKED TO DEATH

KILLED BY HER OLDEST SISTER WHO WAS LEFT IN CHARGE OF HOUSE

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 16.—Sophia Argyfou, aged eight months, was choked to death today while in the care of her ten year old sister Deapo. The elder child, who is said to be deficient mentally, will be sent to a state institution. The mother left the two children together for a few minutes and when she returned the baby had been choked beyond resuscitation.

BASEBALL COMMISSION

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 16.—The National baseball commission held a brief session here today, transacted minor business of a routine nature and adjourned. All the baseball magnates who attended the commission meeting yesterday, when the annual drafting of players took place left town today.

PRECINCT OFFICERS MEET

Commissioner Duncan and the City Clerk Will Instruct Them at Meeting to be Held This Evening

The precinct officers will meet at city hall this evening for the purpose of being sworn in and to receive instructions from Commissioner Duncan and City Clerk Flynn relative to the handling of the ballot, which is a rather unwieldy and complicated one. The city clerk has about arrived at the conclusion that the ballot will not permit of the Currier system and that the ballots will have to be counted singly rather than in blocks of 50. The matter of the best way of folding and handling the ballot will be discussed at this evening's meeting and it is hoped that at the precinct officers will endeavor to attend.

WAGNER SUCCESSOR OF CLARKE AS PILOT OF PIRATE CREW

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 16.—Now that Fred Clarke has definitely decided that he will bid goodby to the great American pastime after the present season the wisecracks are digging into the dope and the "tall uncut" trying to hit upon the Pirate chief's successor. They are advancing reasons why this or that man would be an admirable choice, and almost to a man they are overlooking the "one best bet," the man who not only is Clarke's logical successor, but also is the right man for the job from point of experience. This man is none other than "Old Honus" Wagner, who has served fifteen years with the Pirates. He came to the Buccaneers with Fred and has been in harness ever since. His knowledge of the game cannot be questioned, even by those who, for personal reasons, are espousing the cause of other candidates for the berth, and he would be a popular leader, too, for there is not a ball player or fan in the country who has not heard of "Old Hans" and who does not respect this quiet, pleasant vet. According to those in the know, Hans is Clarke's logical successor, and unless all signs fail he is the man who will be at the helm of Barney Dreyfuss' club next season.

PROF. THAYER DROWNED

BODY FOUND FLOATING IN THE CHARLES RIVER—SUICIDE, SAYS MEDICAL EXAMINER

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—The body of Prof. Ezra Ripley Thayer, dean of the Harvard law school, was found floating in the Charles river today. He had been missing two days. Medical Examiner McGrath said it was a case of suicide.

Prof. Thayer was a member of the law firm of Storey, Thordike, Palmer & Thayer until he took charge of the Harvard law school.

He was born in Milton, N. H., in 1865. Since his graduation from Harvard and the law school he had been prominent in legal affairs, and declined an appointment as a justice of the supreme court of the state. He leaves a widow.

Prof. Thayer has been under the care of a physician for nearly a year and had been compelled to give up some of his lectures.

He returned from New York on Tuesday and was seen coming out of his house in the Back Bay district about 4 o'clock that afternoon. His body was found near his home. His watch had stopped at 4:10.

2,571,750 PRISONERS

NUMBER OF RUSSIANS CAPTURED SINCE MAY 1—4000 MACHINE GUNS TAKEN

GENEVA, Switzerland, Sept. 16, via Paris, 11:50 a. m.—The number of Russians taken prisoner since May 1 by the Austrians and Germans is reckoned by La Suisse at 2,571,750. It is stated that 6000 guns and 4000 machine guns have been captured. The newspaper states that these figures have been compiled from official bulletins issued at Berlin and Vienna. It adds: "The official Austrian and German figures given out prior to May 1 showed a total of 1,293,000 Russian prisoners, not including civilians or the dead and wounded. General Polivanoff, the Russian minister of war, informed the duma that the total of officers and men at the front since the beginning of the war was 5,050,000. Consequently the present total of Russian forces is 1,093,250."

JITNEY DRIVER ARRESTED

Charles A. Folger, who claims to operate a jitney bus between this city and Lawrence, was arrested on Market street early this afternoon by Inspector John A. Walsh and booked at the station on an alleged charge of operating a motor vehicle without a license. Folger's peculiar actions attracted the attention of the Inspector and the arrest followed.

THINK SUBMARINE LOST

BRITISH ADMIRALTY ANNOUNCED LOSS OF E-7 IN DARDANELLES

LONDON, Sept. 16, 5:01 p. m.—The admiralty announced today that in all probability the British submarine E-7 had been sunk off the Dardanelles.

The statement follows: "The enemy claims to have sunk the submarine E-7, Lieut. Commander Archibald D. Cochrane, off the Dardanelles, and to have taken three officers and 25 men of the crew prisoners. As no news has been received from this submarine since Sept. 4, it must be presumed that this report is correct."

FEAR DEVICE SOLD TO GERMANY

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Certain Boston inventors who have been perfecting an electrical device which they claim would reveal ships at sea on the darkest night or in the heaviest fog, now fear that one of their number has sold the secret to the German government. He disappeared, they say, after a conference with a German naval attaché and has not been seen since.

WAR SPECIALTIES ACTIVE

U. S. STEEL FELL TO 74 1/2—PRICES IMPROVED ALL AROUND IN AFTERNOON—CLOSING IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Early dealings in stocks today were again of a superficial and professional character, trading converging around war specialties as usual. Bethlehem Steel opened up a point, but soon declined 5 to 3 1/2. Whys-Overland lost 3 1/2 for 1 1/2. Crucible Steel 1 3/4 at 92 1/2. U. S. Steel opened at a gain of half a point at 74 1/2 but soon reacted to 74. General Motors and U. S. Alcohol fared better in that they retained much of their initial gains. Among the railroads, Reading, Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio registered fractional advances.

Selling concentrated upon U. S. Steel which later fell to 74 1/4, a considerable fraction under yesterday's lowest quotation. Other active stocks, like Canon Pacific, Pennsylvania, New York Central, St. Paul and the anthracite issues scored similar losses for which London with its lowest prices for Americans was held responsible. Minneapolis & St. Louis made partial recovery from yesterday's weakness. Bethlehem Steel continued to yield a total of 10 1/2 points to 35 1/2. Crucible Steel showed further heaviness and others of that class lacked their recent buoyancy. Bonds were easy at night sales.

Pressure relaxed measurably in the early afternoon, prices improving all around. Colorado Fuel was especially active, advancing 2 3/4 to 49 1/2. Bethlehem Steel pit rose to 169, an overall gain of 12 3/4 and the common rallied seven points from its low of the forenoon.

Colorado Fuel was the most active feature of the late trading, advancing to 51. Obscure mining shares also were prominent at gains. The closing was irregular.

ALLEGED STRIKE PLOT LINER ASHORE

O'Connor Reiterates His Charges and Cummings Again Issues a Contradiction

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—The New York Sun has secured an interview with Thomas W. O'Connor, president of the International Longshoremen's union, on the story emanating from New York of the attempt of European agents to bribe O'Connor with $1,035,000 if he would call a strike of 23,000 longshoremen, through Matthew Cummings of Boston.

Mr. O'Connor is in Toledo attending a district conference of longshoremen. "The story is entirely true," he said. "The idea of the strike was to tie up the shipment of war munitions to the allies. Dr. Dumba, the Austrian ambassador was indirectly connected with the deal."

In an address to delegates on Tuesday, Pres. O'Connor said: "I was offered $1,035,000 by Matthew Cummings of Boston if I would call a general strike. I revealed the whole plot to the government. I was amazed at the magnitude of the proposition made to me. I had several conferences in New York and Boston with Cummings. I then reported all my details to Secretary of Labor W. B. Wilson. He hurried to New York where Pres. Wilson was reviewing the big naval fleet, and related to him the proposal of Cummings."

From that time on the government has taken active interest in the affair. "Cummings said his scheme was that of the Irish societies working in conjunction with the German societies of the United States. I insisted that before I go through with the deal I should know at once whence the money came."

Cummings turned to use a telephone and the number he called, I learned a few moments later was in the office of George Sylvester Viereck, editor of the Fatherland.

This paper has already published the long official statement of Cummings denying the statements of Mr. O'Connor and branding the whole story as a plot and a frameup by the men who make the charges. Mr. Cummings in a Boston paper today again denies that he had anything to do with the alleged plot and he calls O'Connor and Dempsey a number of hard names.

The claim that Cummings had any control over any Irish society in this country is known to be false although he frequently, without authority, undertook to speak for Irish societies collectively.

DEAD MAN NOMINATED NAVAL ADVISORY BOARD

DIED ON DAY PRECEDING THE PRIMARY AND NAME WAS ON BALLOT

SALISBURY, Md., Sept. 16.—A curious complication has arisen in Wicomico county as a result of Tuesday's democratic primary.

For the first time, probably, in the history of the state a dead man was nominated for office. Ernest A. Toadvine, who died suddenly Monday, was returned as nominated over J. Clayton Kelley for clerk of the circuit court.

As Mr. Toadvine died on the day preceding the primary, his name could not be removed from the ticket. Although the fact of his death was known generally throughout the county his name received 200 more votes than his opponent in the party and the judges of election were compelled to declare him nominated.

It is said that Kelley will claim the nomination and will fight out the question in court.

Kennedy, Charles Halsey, African dogder.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chaplin won the first prize for costumes and in the athletic events Cassie McSorley was the star performer, winning three firsts and beating out the boys of her age in the high jump and the 50 yards race. The Pogo company catered.

FEAR AN INSURRECTION

THE TURKISH ARTILLERY TO BE PLACED IN CHARGE OF GERMANS

LONDON, Sept. 16, 10.15 a. m.—Advices from Constantinople, according to the Athens correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Co., are to the effect that all government financial institutions such as the Ottoman bank, are making preparations to move to the interior of Asia Minor. It has been learned from the same sources that because of the fear of an insurrection in the Turkish army all Turkish artillery soon will be placed in charge of Germans.

As long ago as March 3 diplomats in London received telegrams stating that the Ottoman bank and the German bank at Constantinople had been transferred to Konieh, Asia Minor, and that the archives of the Turkish government had been removed to that city. These steps were supposed to have been taken because of the attack upon the Dardanelles and the fear that a passage of the straits might soon be forced.

Euphrate Aground on Island of Socotra—All Aboard Rescued

MARSEILLES, France, Sept. 16, 6.05 a. m.—The liner Euphrate, owned by the Messageries Maritimes, has gone ashore on the Island of Socotra. Passengers and crew have been taken off by passing steamers. It is feared the Euphrate will be a total loss.

The Euphrate is a steamer of 5575 tons, 447 feet long, with a beam of 52 feet. She was last reported to have sailed from Saigon, French Cochinchina, Aug. 24, for Marseilles.

Socotra Island, on which the Euphrate is reported to have gone ground, is in the Indian ocean near the entrance to the Gulf of Aden and 135 miles east-northeast of Cape Guardafui. It is about 80 miles in length and the capital is Tamarida, on the north coast.

FORFEITED TO THE CROWN

BRITISH PRIZE COURT CONDEMNNS U. S. PRODUCTS FORMING CARGOES OF FOUR SHIPS

LONDON, Sept. 16, 3.33 p. m.—The British prize court today condemned the greater part of the American products forming the cargoes of four steamships. The products, valued at several million dollars, are declared forfeited to the crown.

The judgment was delivered by Sir Samuel T. Evans, president of the court. It involves the cargoes of the Norwegian steamships Kim, Alfred Nobel, Bjornstjerne-Bjornson and Fridland. All the goods on these vessels, consisting principally of American meat products are confiscated with the exception of a small proportion which the court released to claimants.

The case has been pending for several months. The steamships were seized last November and although efforts were made by the American owners to obtain an early trial the British authorities set the hearing for June. The hearing closed last month and judgment was reserved until today.

In a lengthy judgment, Sir Samuel said it was plain these ships were carrying towards Copenhagen, when captured, more than 13 times the amount of goods which, under normal circumstances, would have been taken to that port. That fact gave practical and overwhelming assurance that the goods were intended for Germany. Any contention, of course, it did not prove conclusively that they were destined for an enemy of Great Britain.

One circumstance throwing light on the real destination of the goods, Sir Samuel said, was that the exportation of lard by one American company alone to Copenhagen in three weeks after the outbreak of the war, was 20 times more than in periods of peace. As to this of canned meat, he said, it had not been shown they had been sent to Denmark in any great quantity before the war, yet hundreds of thousands were on the way when the vessels were captured. These facts, he seemed, could not have been meant for any persons other than German soldiers.

Referring to the consignments of rubber, described as gum, the president said: "I have come to the conclusion that gum is not a true commercial description for rubber and that it was used in the ship's manifest in order to avoid the difficulty which would result in its capture by a belligerent. Any concealment of this sort will, while it sits in the prize court weigh heavily against those who adopt such courses."

"Neutrals are expected to conduct their neutral trade during the war without false papers and with candor and belligerents are entitled to expect from neutrals a frank course of conduct."

COMPLETE LOSS TO PACKERS

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—The meat cargoes confiscated by Great Britain will be a complete loss to the packers, according to Thomas E. Wilson, president of Morris & Co., as there were no advance payments made on the shipments.

BARB SECTARIAN ISSUES

WOMEN FAVOR AMENDMENT BY STATE FEDERATION—EQUAL SUFFRAGE STARTS ACTIVITY

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Mrs. William Lowell Putnam and other leading anti-suffragists who attended the meeting of the Association of Non-partisan Clubwomen in the Twentieth Century club yesterday afternoon expressed the opinion "that the discussion of policies was futile, since no drastic measures were taken to offset the vote for the equal suffrage amendment at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs at Marion."

Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan of Natick, who presided, said: "This association is not a federal body and we have no power to ask for reconsideration or to rescind that vote; but we can, for the sake of peace and harmony, let bygones be bygones and work for an amendment to be presented through the federated clubs, which shall in future prevent the federation being used by the injection of partisan or sectarian issues."

Mrs. Gamaliel Bradford of Wellesley Hills gave a brief outline of the policies, which she declared "are by no means a resentment or retaliation, and which, it is hoped, will bring both suffragists and anti-suffragists into harmony."

Among the reforms urged was more care in the appointment of delegates to federation meetings who will express by their votes the will of the clubs which they represent and to urge clubs to pay the expenses of delegates.

A resolution was adopted favoring an amendment to the constitution of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs to prevent action in future on partisan or sectarian issues.

Miss Mary Ladd, president of the New England Women's club, honorary vice president of the federation, and the directors elected yesterday are Miss Maude Folts of Winchester, Mrs. Lawrence A. Foye of Lawrence, Mrs. William H. Mitchell of Boston, Mrs. F. B. S. Horn of Cambridge, Mrs. Frederick H. Smith of Somerville, Mrs. Frank Stuart of Newton, and Mrs. F. Woodward of Fitchburg.

WATCHMAN MISTAKEN FOR A YEGGMAN WAS KILLED—AWARD OF $4000 TO WIDOW CONTESTED

BOSTON, Sept. 16.—Whether or not William A. Harbore, a night watchman in the employ of the First-Clark construction company, who was shot in a revolver duel with Deputy Sheriff Hart of Buzzards Bay, each having mistaken the other for a yeggmán, sustained the fatal injury in the course of his employment or incidental thereto, is a question raised in a case before the supreme court. The Industrial Accident board found in favor of the widow, Mrs. Emma Harbore, awarding her $1000 in weekly payments. The first error of the construction company, the Fidelity and Deposit company of Maryland, denied liability, contending the accident was not incidental to the employment of Harbore. The case is going to the full bench of the supreme court.

GERMANS LOSE COLONIES

ALLIES OBTAIN REMARKABLE RESULTS ALONG 2000 MILE FRONT IN AFRICA

PARIS, Sept. 16.—"Fighting continually in Africa since more than 2000 miles, the French colonial troops, aided by the British allies, have obtained remarkable results," said Gaston Doumergue, minister of the colonies, to the Associated Press yesterday.

"When one considers the difficulties of transportation in the interior of the Kameruns, not only of food but of munitions and cannon of our expeditionary columns, our success appears to be still more evident and meritorious."

"A number of French columns marching from east to west and from south to north already have covered more than 600 kilometers (about 373 miles) and, fighting continuously, have established junctions and thus surrounded the enemy on three sides, while Anglo-French columns are operating from the interior of the Kameruns, the blockade of the coast has been effected by British vessels."

"The fighting in the colonies, bears a great resemblance to that on the western front. Trenches, barbed wire entanglements and blockhouse observation posts have been cleverly constructed and utilized by the Germans, who have shown here, as elsewhere, the greatest preparations for war. Our enemies had even sent to Africa some aeroplanes, which the allies fortunately brought down as soon as they appeared."

"Germans with a population of over 20,000 and an important carillon, was besieged for several months and only fell when I ordered a gun of large caliber transported there from Morocco. It was brought upon boats along about 100 kilometers (62 miles) of winding waterways to the outskirts of the city. The effect of the projectiles was so terrifying that after a short bombardment the population and garrison of Garua requested permission to surrender."

"The climate and the nature of the ground present great difficulties to the march of our troops, but fortunately they were overcome. I must in this respect refer to the excellent organization of our sanitary service, thanks to which our losses due to disease were greatly reduced."

MR. BRASSARD HURT

Arthur H. Brassard, a former resident of this city and now of Lynn, suffered a bad accident yesterday near the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Brassard in Lynn street.

Mr. Brassard came here to attend the wedding of his brother, Maurice, which took place Tuesday. Yesterday forenoon he left the house on his way to his home, when he slipped and fell on his left foot. He was treated by Dr. J. Lavallee and is feared it will be several days before he can leave his home.

THE SPELLBINDER

The state primaries are less than one week away and as a result there has been a general awakening of interest within the past week and the candidates who believe in stump-speaking as an effective means of securing votes, quite busy in their respective districts. The republican contest for the gubernatorial nomination is quite clean-cut and if left to the republicans themselves. Hon. Samuel McCall will win over Hon. Gratton Cushing, and many leading authorities agree that he will win anyway. The republican who gets his title from the fact that he pins his faith on the platform and principles of that party exclusively is thoroughly disgusted with that party's position within the G. O. P. that insists in dragging religious intolerance into every important contest, and desires to rid the party of the influence of that element for all time. Generally this religious element works quietly and under cover but this year it has come out in the open in support of Lieut. Governor Cushing and with the consent of that gentleman. A leading campaigner for Lieut. Gov. Cushing is Frank L. Bachelier, father of the Bachelier bill, otherwise known as the "sectarian bill." Mr. Bachelier also is taking a lively interest in the party for the legislature, who have stood by him for the past two years when his bill has come up. In the legislature though as yet he has not made his appearance in Lowell, despite the fact that two of his leading lieutenants are candidates in this city.

The County Contests
In the county contests between the republicans, for county commissioner, county treasurer and sheriff, the men on the outside looking in are on the outside talking vigorously while those who are in office have done no stump-orating and will not do so. The most active candidate for county treasurer is Harold D. Wilson, the young Lochinvar who came out of the west some 12 years ago and settled in Somerville where he proceeded to get out a lively newspaper. Mr. Wilson believes the Lowell is the prettiest and most desirable part of the county and has made seven speeches here this week. He made a pointed address; that is to say his address consisted of five points. His first was that he is eminently fitted for the job; his second was that it is poor policy to let the G. O. P. stand for a perpetual tenure of office. For a third point he maintained that it is poor policy to allow any man to have absolute control of the county's finances for 30 years continuously. Fourthly, he maintained that it is a bad policy to let the county's finances be managed by a man who is not giving the taxpayers of Middlesex $3500 worth of service per annum. Mr. Wilson says he'll come back Saturday morning and will make a whirlwind tour of Lowell and other cities and towns in the county. Wilson is some hustler.

What Messer Contends
Candidate Messer also delivered a couple of speeches in this city this week and he is trying hard to line up the younger element of the republican party against the older element claiming that it is this younger element that can do away with the backsliding progressives. Mr. Messer was particularly opposed to candidates backed by centralized influences, machine or "ring" candidates.

AN EASY WAY TO END CATARRH FOREVER

Simple Home Treatment Destroys Germs of This Dangerous Disease
The reason why so many people who suffer from Catarrh never seem able to get cured is that they are content with getting the momentary relief of sprays, douching, greasy creams, ointments, etc. Such things do open up the swollen nostrils and clear the head temporarily but do nothing to destroy the germs which are blowing, hawking, spitting and choking but they never cure. To drive out Catarrh for good you have to get down to its real cause. Catarrh is a germ disease. The air is full of catarrh germs thrown off by one person and absorbed by another and when the system does fail to throw off such germs they find permanent lodgment in the nose, throat and head and multiply rapidly. The germs of catarrh can best be destroyed by inhaling the pure medicated air of Hyomel (pronounced High-ome). This splendid and powerful combination of official Eucalyptus with other healing agents has a wonderful germicidal action. You breathe its air into your nose, throat and lungs by means of a small hard rubber inhaler which leading druggists in this vicinity supply with every complete treatment. This medicated air is certain death to the germs of Catarrh and drives them completely out of your system and when the germs are destroyed the catarrh with all its disagreeable symptoms will stop. Even two or three minutes use will give refreshing relief while if you will use it two or three times a day for a few weeks it will completely banish catarrh and every symptom of catarrh. As Hyomel is pleasant to breathe and is always sold by druggists everywhere with a positive guarantee of successful results or money back, surely no Catarrhal sufferer should go long before trying this simple home remedy.

longer, any doubt in the public mind that the administration at the present time will stop at nothing to gain political prestige. "They're all doing it," Mayor Murphy has been particularly open in his method from the time of the hearing at city hall when he said to Senator Doyle of New Bedford, or some other member of a legislative committee: "Whether I am mayor again or not, I believe the mayor should receive more salary," or words to that effect, which at the time was taken as a forerunner of his intention to run again, down to Tuesday's meeting when he honorably and publicly declaring himself in favor of the widest and most general competition on the high school plans, in opposition to the idea of restricting it to local architects, came forth with a statement that down deep in his heart he favored local architects and even if their plans were not quite as good as those of outsiders, nevertheless, they would have the job. This shift of position following the shift on the firemen's matter; the assurance of the council to Mr. Varnum to sidestep the law in awarding him money for his land; the promises to the property owners in Kirk and Anne streets relative to their land are all too wide-open to leave any doubt in the minds of the public as to what is being done in the interests of the members of the municipal council who are coming before the people for re-election.

Rescinded Former Action
Again the municipal council has rescinded former action; this time on the Varnum land loan. There has not been a big proposition before this administration in two years involving the expenditure of over $10,000 on which they have not at some time or other rescinded former action. On the Varnum land matter they recently voted a loan of $13,000 for the purchase of the site and now they have rescinded it and are voting the cost of the land from the $21,000 voted for the Pillsbury lot in 1913, which has been lying idle ever since and on which the city has been paying interest. Thus it has cost the city something like $1600 in interest alone, while this government has been talking hospital sites, while many opportunities have arisen to use the money to good advantage, on some other permanent improvement. The municipal council despite the provisions of chapter 263 of the acts of 1913 which provides that no money shall be paid or loaned by the city to any person or corporation for the purchase of land, has rescinded its action and has voted a specific price for the Varnum land, the price being $1977. It is a clever way to pull the wool over the eyes of the taxpayer for he is led to assume that this amount represents all that the city will pay for the land. Such is not the case, however, for the council has agreed to pay Mr. Varnum a higher price which is not named. When land is seized by right of eminent domain, no price is mentioned, the land-owner sues, and the jury awards the price to be paid. In this case the municipal council specifies the price allowed by law and promises to settle with Mr. Varnum for more without going to court about it, which would appear to be not only a violation of the law but a very questionable way of misleading the public relative to the real cost of the property.

Changing Ordinances
Now the cemetery commissioners want the ordinance relative to their department changed so that they can fire the superintendent if they feel so disposed, but before changing this ordinance they should change other ordinances and enforce some of those already on the books, or take them off. For instance they have framed up a jitney ordinance that the jitney men say can't be complied with. Meanwhile the street railway people come along with an increase in fares. While of course the action of the municipal council in shutting off jitney competition with the street railway is a good thing, the ordinance in its present form is a public nuisance. The fact remains that if the mayor and the members of the municipal council have such an interest in the public down in their hearts, etc., they should either protect the interests of the public not only in the matter of fares but also in getting any advantages there may be from jitney competition.

Another Secret Conference
Knocking the Locks and Canals company has always been a popular stock campaign play and hence it is not surprising to find the municipal council which is strong on the old-fashioned stuff, knocking the Locks and Canals company at this particular time, by word of mouth, though as yet the members have persistently ignored the Trades and Labor Council's petition and Congressman Rogers' advice, that would make the Locks and Canals company spend a little money on the fencing of its unprotected waterways. On Tuesday a private conference was held by the council with several residents of Pawtucketville relative to the bridge, at which the mayor and Commissioners Duncan, Morse and Carmichael declared themselves in favor of starting on the bridge at once, despite the objections of the Locks and Canals company. The company was roundly knocked at the conference. Then the gentlemen from Pawtucketville asked the municipal council to take $5000 or $10,000 from the $50,000 appropriated for the new bridge for the ledge work. Commissioner Carmichael asked Commissioner Duncan if it could be done and Mr. Duncan said it could but it would be poor policy. A few weeks ago when The Spellbinder saw in the financial report, an appropriation for $50,000 for Pawtucket bridge of which $15,000 had been spent and mentioned that this money thus borrowed would be all probably be idle for a year with the city paying interest on it, he was reminded from city hall that the money had not been borrowed but had only been voted. Now they propose to take $5000 or $10,000 from a loan that has not been negotiated, and Commissioner Duncan says it can be done. One year ago it will be recalled the same administration had an experience borrowing $225,000 for a $225,000 loan. They voted to borrow $225,000, but found they couldn't raise that amount. While the charter may state that no work can be begun or liability incurred until the money to cover the cost has been appropriated, the framers of the charter did not contemplate that future city governments would take advantage of that statement, and to business on wind. The framers of the charter meant that no work could be started until the money not only has been voted but is actually in sight.

Business Subject to Politics
Some time ago The Spellbinder pointed out the fact that the city's business was being directed for political effect, and the fact was indignantly denied by friends of the administration. Now that fact is apparent to even the most superficial observer and there is no

"just a ride" that Hon. James A. Vahey and Fred Crowley, president of the street railwaymen's union took through the principal streets of the city on Saturday after the exercises at the South common, and it didn't mean that everything had been patched up between the mayor and the street car men as perhaps was the impression intended. It seems that after the speaking on the South common Labor day afternoon His Honor invited Lawyer Vahey and President Crowley who was with Mr. Vahey, to take a little auto ride with him and they accepted. Mr. Crowley was perhaps rather surprised, though he didn't say so, to find that instead of being taken over a route that one would naturally take on a pleasure trip with a visitor they were being exhibited through the down town streets of the city. Some people who saw them got the impression that the little difference between the mayor and the street car men was healed up when they saw the occupants of the auto, and perhaps Sgt. Petrie also got that impression. But in which it only an attempt to give that impression, I am told.

Evasion of the Law
If the municipal council is evading the letter and intent of the "eminent domain" law in the hospital case in promising to make a satisfactory settlement with Mr. Varnum at his own figures after seizing his land, thereby paying more than the law allows at private sale, will it not be evading the same law in the high school case in which it is said elaborate promises have been made to certain property owners in Kirk and Anne streets? Some of the property owners in these streets have been told not to worry: "I'll take care of you" on the settlement. But how can they be "taken care of" as promised in the face of chapter 263 of the acts of 1913? When the crash comes the members of the municipal council who made the promises will come back with the "alibi," I would have made good but for the law and the property owner after having supported the members who made the promises will and themselves stung. Such is life with an administration that makes many promises.

Friend at Court
It would be a good thing for the administration from a political standpoint to keep Lawyer Daniel J. Donahue out of the police court until after the primaries, for while Dan says nice things about the administration at political meetings, when he gets behind the scenes in the law office of business, that of trying cases in court, he hands some severe wallops to the administration through his criticisms of the police department. Toward the administration he may be "a friend at court," but he is by no means a friend in court and in court he knows whereof he speaks.

What John Stratton Says
John S. Stratton of the famous old Ward Three club while down town a few days ago said: "What Lowell needs just now is another club, of the nature of the old Ward Three club, which looked after the city's interests regardless of who was in power. If we had a Ward Three club today there wouldn't be all this fuss over Pawtucket bridges, summer street extensions and contagious hospitals. They'd have to show the people at all times."

Those Unlettered Autos
In this city of law enforcement the mayor of which announced his campaign speeches two years ago that the law would be enforced rigidly and that there would be equal rights for all and special privileges to none, there is an ordinance, and ordinances are a form of law, that requires all city-owned automobiles to be properly lettered. Yet the two city automobiles that are not lettered, in defiance of the law, are that run by the superintendent of police to whom is entrusted the law enforcement and that run by the commissioner of finance who introduced the ordinance that requires city autos to be lettered. Such is "equal rights for all; special privileges to none" as contemplated by this administration.

LONGSHOREMEN'S STRIKE

WAR MUNITIONS FOR ALLIES HELD UP IN NEW YORK—600 MEN QUIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Loaded freight cars and thousands of tons of freight accumulated today in the yard and on the piers of the West Shore railroad at Weehawken, N. J., where a strike of 600 longshoremen and freight handlers began yesterday. Since the men went out the railroad officials discontinued efforts to unload the cars arriving there and the loading of the freight upon lighters, but policemen were protecting the property. Much of this freight is composed of war munitions intended for England and France. Despite rumors that the strike was a result of German propaganda, leaders of the longshoremen denied that they were influenced by foreign agitators and said that they would return to work if their demands for an increase of wages from 20 to 25c an hour were granted. Strike leaders asserted that 250 to 300 freight handlers were on strike in the yards of the New York Central & Hudson river railroad along the Hudson river below 72nd street, but railway officials said that 300 men were still at work there. The strikers asked an increase of 10c an hour and of 50 per cent for Sunday and holiday work.

FOUGHT IN WAR OF 1845

DEATH OF BUGLER ROLLAND, SOLE SURVIVOR OF BATTLE OF SIDI BRAHIM

PARIS, Sept. 16, 5.10 a. m.—The death is announced of Bugler Rolland, sole survivor of those who took part in the battle of Sidi Brahim in 1845 in the French war of subjugation in Algeria. He was 95 years old and was decorated a few years ago with the medal of the Legion of Honor. President Poincare attended a dinner given in his honor on Feb. 22, 1914, in this city.

During the battle of Sidi Brahim, while wounded and a prisoner, Bugler Rolland was ordered by Abd-el-Kader, the Arabian chief, to sound the retreat at a critical stage in the battle in order to deceive the French troops. Without an instant's hesitation he sounded the charge. In the clash which followed the French won the day.

CENTRAL COUNCIL A.O.H.

PROPOSITION TO CONSOLIDATE ALL THE DIVISIONS TO SAVE EXPENSE

An important meeting of the Central Council, A. O. H., was held Sunday at which the subject of consolidating all the divisions as a means of lessening the expense was discussed. President John P. Sheehan presided. Considerable business of a routine nature was transacted. The matter of amalgamating the five local divisions was discussed at considerable length. The majority of the members present talked in favor of such a plan, referring to the economy which could be accomplished and which would be highly beneficial at present. It is expected the members will discuss the matter at their respective division meetings between now and October 3 when the council meets again. Several members spoke on the good of the order, including Patrick Kieran, James Lillis, Div. 1; John J. McOsker, Div. 2; John J. O'Neill, Div. 3; John J. McMenney, John Kenny, Wm. Nelson, Patrick Hickey, Div. 11; Patrick J. McCann, Div. 28.

This case will be vigorously prosecuted on the evidence gathered by the New York district attorney's office. The law covering such cases is well understood and its meaning is not disputed by anybody.

He is still enjoying the best of health and is known in Winthrop as "Grandpa." His hearing and sight are still good and only the most inclement weather prevents him taking his daily stroll and the town where he is the idol of children. Five years ago he lost the sight of his left eye, but after a fall recently he found that the sight had been restored. Mr. Hollinger is well known in Lowell particularly to the Masonic fraternity.
